WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—Senate "five per cent" probers are checking today on reports that the first lady of the land and Chief Justice Fred M. Vinson received deep freezers from a Chicago perfume company.Maj. Gen. Harry Vaughan, President Truman's military aide, already has been named by a witness before the Senate investigating committee as having received a similar gift.

Report Others Favored

The inquiry is directed at reports that not only Mrs. Truman, Chief Justice Vinson and Vaugh-gan, but James K. Vardaman, former naval aide to the President, and George E. Allen, White House
playboy, were recipients of the perfume company's generosity.Earlier "five per cent" testimony disclosed that John Maragon, intimate friend of Vaughan, is a one-time employee of the Chicago firm—the Albert Verley
Perfume company.Albert Gross, a Milwaukee businessman, testified at Thursday's committee hearing that Vaughan received one of a half dozen deep freezers sent to "high government officials or their wives."Cropped Up Frequently Maracon's name has cropped up frequently along with Vaughan's in the committee investigation into alleged "influence peddling" in connection with government contracts.President Truman stoutly defended Vaughan, his long-time friend, at this Thursday news conference.Mr. Truman replied with an emphatic no when newsmen asked if Secretary of the Army Gray would have authority "to relieve Vaughan of his duties if there should be any cause."The President said his aide will be free to testify at the Senate hearing, but he did not know whether the general has any such plans.Gross said he shipped a deep freezer purchased by the perfume company to Vaughan. His testimony was halted abruptly before he could name anyone else.Workmen are giving the Grant erous other bridges throughout the

by the painting crews, it is stated.This may not be a record but it will do until a better one comes along. Emerson Reno has some remarkable corn on his Shenango

The building was 60x25 feet, main building and by some freak action of the wind the building collapsed rather than blowing over.

The floors were piled one on

Sweeps Over Section
Of County ThursdayEastern and southern sections of Lawrence county and areas ad-electrical storm which began around mid-afternoon on Thursday caused were three large barns burned to the ground and a large chicken hatchery house destroyed in addition to the numerous trees which were either uprooted or broken off by the force of the wind which accompanied the storm.Ironically, the storm struck just two weeks to the day, from the heavy storm of July 29 from which the same area was just cleaning up.

Loss to district farmers was heavy due to the fact that many of the season's crops had just been stored in the barns.Lightning Is another district barn on the El-the damage estimated at $25,000 according to Herbert Reno, R. D. 2, Portersville, owner of the structure which was completely consumed in the blaze which was started by a bolt of lightning.The bolt which struck at 3:05 called into action both the Ellwood

City and Wurttemberg fire departleaping flames which were consuming the huge 27 year old structure considered to be one of the best barns in Lawrence county. The firemen were able to save the family dwelling and a shed nearby the scene of the devastating fire.

Large Barn

According to Mr. Reno, who had resided on the farm for the past seven years, the barn proper was 48 x 68 with a wing of 40 x 52 adjoining it. Both the barn, wing and a large silo were burned to the ground level.The entire season's crop was contained in the barn which included, 30 tons of hay, 260 bushels of wheat, four to five hundred bushels of last season's corn, a registered bull, a registered heifer, a tractor, corn binder, manure spreader and a lime spreader.The spectacular fire which attracted scores of spectators, was located near the Pleasant Hill grange hall. The owner, Mr. Reno,

Gen. Bradley In Full Accord With Economy Moves

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—(INS)—Gen. Omar N. Bradley who will have the top military spot in the new defense set-up is reported in full accord today with plans for economy and streamlining.

Bradley was named by President Truman Thursday to be the first full-time chairman of the joint chiefs of staff.

He already has declared that the defense plant must cost "much less," and must improve in efficiency.

Defense Secretary Johnson has selected Gen. Joseph T. McNarney to head a board directed to trim a billion dollars a year from defense spending.

The economy axe has begun to fall in the Pentagon. Civilian employees in some offices, including the office of information, are said to have received dismissal notices.

Bradley, in his last major speech, suggested "hypothetically" that defense spending might be trimmed a billion dollars a year while military effectiveness was being increased.

The new chairmanship to which Bradley is appointed, pending confirmation by the Senate, is the highest military office ever offered an American.

Although he will have no vote in the joint chiefs of staff meetings, Bradley will preside at all sessions and will be the principal advisor to Johnson and the President on all matters on which the joint chiefs disagree.

NEW YORK, Aug. 12.—Flirty skirts demand slips with slits! New York lingerie makers today are showing slashed petticoats to wear under the new slashed skirts. They have three vents from hem to knee, allowing for one to three slits in dresses.

"With the slinky skirt making a comeback," said one undies designer, "our industry is having to make a costly switch in styling."

The newest slips no longer have shaped busts, but flat camisole tops. They are form-fitted and side-zipped, to avoid bulkiness under thin silk frocks.

And there's a big trend toward bold colors in all forms of underwear.

Money Furnished For Needy Citizens

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—(INS)—The House Ways and Means Committee agreed today to furnish the states with an additional 160 million dollars a year to care for needy citizens.

The proposal will be embodied in a new Social Security bill now nearing completion.

It would provide improved benefits for needy persons over 65, for totally and permanently disabled persons and dependent children.

The federal government would increase its share on monthly benefits paid by the states to a maximum of $50 in the new formula worked out by the committee.

one-time ally, was in answer to a Yugoslav protest on the Austrian peace treaty negotiations.

On Aug. 5, the Yugoslavs accused Moscow of "selling out" their claim to southern Austrian territory at the Paris peace conference. The Belgrade note said Russia took into account "nothing but its own narrow interests."

Stiff Soviet Rejoinder

The stiff Soviet rejoinder termed the Yugoslav charges "slandereous fabrications about the Soviet Union's foreign policy."

"There is nothing surprising in the fact that the Yugoslav government, having joined the camp of foreign capital reaction, is violating the elementary rules of propriety in correspondence, and in the manner of the fascists is repeating slanderous accusations against the Soviet Union."

The Soviet blast underscored the intensifying bitterness between the two nations which once were closely bound to each other. Tito last week—in a speech obviously directed against Russia—warned that his troops were ready to resist any enemy.

lomats, will walk to the altar with a slight limp. She fractured her legs and knees when she jumped out a back window of the New York Soviet consulate last summer, rather than be forcibly returned to the Soviet Union.

She looked calm and confident as she spoke to newsmen on the eve of her first anniversary under the American flag. In a statement addressed to "all Americans," Mme. Kasenkina declared:

Sacred Duty To Warn

"I believe it is my sacred duty to appeal to the American people so that they can be on guard against the forces of totalitarianism. I appeal to you to guard your priceless heritage which was attained by your illustrious ancestors—the heritage of freedom."

"For the past year, a year of genuine freedom, I had ample opportunity to see that difference which exists between the world of the free—the United States of America—and a world of the oppressed, the Soviet Union. In that year of freedom I succeeded in accomplishing what was impossible to accomplish in the course of my entire life in Soviet Russia."

"I read all the papers I want; I listen to the various foreign language broadcasts without fear of being tossed into a slave labor camp. I see that the people of America have full freedom of religious worship and that the priests are not punished and persecuted as they are under the despotic rule of Stalin and his clique."

War Against Religion

She declared that the Soviet Union is waging an "implacable war against religion and God."

Her leap last Aug. 12, caused the U. S. to demand recall of Jacob Lomakin, Soviet consul-general in New York.

It also resulted in the shuttering of Russian consulates in the United States and a like number of American diplomatic offices in Russia.

During the year she has been in the United States, Mme. Kasenkina has written a book, decided to teach the Russian language, and learned to speak some English. But, most important, she said, she has learned freedom from fear.

PARK LOSES MORE TREES IN STORM

More than a dozen trees were either uprooted or broken off close to the ground by the hurricane efforts of the wind which raced through the aging trees.

Near the lake on the south-east end of the Park, four or five large poplar trees were felled by the storm; another was downed near the dance hall; another on the miniature golf course. One large tree narrowly missed Billy Glenn's peanut stand and the adjacent souvenir stand, falling squarely between the two buildings.

The bridge adjacent to the Park Superintendent's office in the upper end of the park, over the Big Run, leading to the pool was blocked off by two trees resting on the structure. Lightning struck other trees in the park also and caused a power failure for several minutes.

A group picnicking in the grove weathered the storm and remained during the night of the fury. No one was injured nor any shelters in the grove damaged, according to the Park manager. Utility workers were in the process of trimming many trees in the park and will find additional work with the resumption of their task.

the barn partially covered by insurance, was an especially heavy one as much of his farm machinery, hay, grain and farm animals were consumed in the blaze.

The owner of the building reported that the structure contained the following: two bulls, two calves, one cow, one new manure spreader, one new silo filler, a rubber tired farm wagon, 30 ton hay, 10 ton straw, 50 bushel wheat, 50 bushel of corn and many farm tools. All of the items listed were destroyed in the blaze.

Several outbuildings adjacent to the barn were saved from destruction by the firemen who played water on them during the course of the fire. No actual estimate of the damage to the buildings was given but it will run into several thousand dollars due to the large amount of equipment, hay, grain and farm animals housed therein.

Excellent progress is being made by a coal company on the Butler road in the replacement of their coal tipples which was completely destroyed by fire a short while back. Mountains of lumber are on the job and being installed in the new coal tipples.

Local playgrounds were all but deserted on Thursday afternoon as youngsters shied away from the suns hot penetrating rays. A few indoor games were in progress in the various sheds provided on the playfields.

Two beautiful fairy or zephyr lilies may be seen on the porch of a house on the north side of Winter avenue, east of Highland avenue. These plants have pink blossoms, while some of the same kind of flowers are in white. The lilies measure two inches across. The zephyr lily is an excellent house plant.

New Far Eastern Policy To Be Ready By Mid-September

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—(INS)—The United States is expected today to whip a new policy for the Far East into shape by mid-September.

A policy study group for the Far East began discussions Thursday following a prolonged conference between ambassador to China J. Leighton Stuart and Secretary of State Acheson.

Stuart is reported to have told Acheson that there is little chance of doing business with the Chinese Communists. He is said to feel that, for the time being, the most that can be done is to make a record in defense of United States Nationals and property in the occupied area.

Predict Egg Prices To Mount Higher

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—(INS)—The Agriculture Department predicts that egg prices will continue upward until early fall.

At latest report they were averaging a little more than 45 cents a dozen for the country as a whole.

Prices will be going up, but they aren't expected to go as high as last year. Increased production in the last three months of 1949 is viewed as a certainty, with a resulting weakening effect on prices.

In a general report on poultry the government says the number of young chickens on farms is about 12 per cent larger than a year ago.

PRAGUE, Aug. 12.—(INS)—A bomb exploded early today in the vacant automobile of U. S. Assistant Air Attache Capt. John Childs outside his home in Prague but no one was hurt.

The explosion broke windows in nearby houses.

Childs said he went to bed late last night and was awakened by an explosion exactly at midnight. He said he was not worried by the blast but went out to investigate.

"My car appeared to have exploded," he said.

COUNTY GARDEN CLUB PICNICS

"A husband is a sort of man
Who tries to help you all he can;
But somehow never quite succeeds,
In doing what the garden needs."

The above whimsical poem by Reginald Arknell was teasingly dedicated to the husbands who were guests of the Lawrence County Garden club members at a picnic that was held Thursday evening with Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Howe as the charming hosts at their home on the Fording road.

The delicious dinner was served at 6:30 o'clock on the spacious lawn of the Howe home. Several lovely bouquets of flowers from the Howe garden lent a festive air to the table. Later, President Mrs. John Elliott conducted a short business session.

The program committee, composed of Otto Pearsall, Mrs. William Berkstresser and Mrs. E. Everett, presented the speaker for the evening, Robert Weingartner, who gave an interesting and informative talk with "Landscaping" as the theme.

Mrs. James Moorehead offered a nice display of colorful gladioli. The next meeting will be on September 8, with Mrs. James Moorehead and Mrs. E. Everett as hostesses.

In View Of News Of The World

By J. C. OESTREICHER, INS Foreign Director

The unrelenting war between cross and sickle was touched off a month ago today by the sweeping Vatican excommunication decree against Communists.

This month is also another interesting anniversary. On August 21, 1941, German armies had smashed Russian conquerors in eastern Poland and in the Baltic states. The troops under Hitler—year-old "friend" cultivated by Premier Stalin—now were plunging into Russia proper.

The Kremlin was in very dangerous trouble. Hundreds of thousands of Red army troops had melted before the Nazi tide. Vast numbers of Russians also were deserting.

Moscow radio on that night eight years ago made a broadcast appealing to "all God-loving inhabitants of the occupied countries" to raise against the Nazis.

"Defend Religious Freedom!" For what purpose? Moscow said: "To defend your religious freedom against a foe that is 'menacing the very existence of Christianity' and seeking to overthrow 'Christ the King.'"

Christ was an acknowledged king when Russia was in danger, but not so years later when the Russians rallied—and with powerful Allied material aid—began pushing the Germans back westward.

The Russian Communists in effect "domesticated" their Orthodox church in the year after they seized power. The Orthodox church also was given solicited attention when the Nazis hammered at the gates of Moscow.

Now the "domestication" or attempt to turn the church into a nationalist undertaking, is being tried in satellite lands outside Russia.

The Vatican-Kremlin battle was inevitable because the church of Rome cannot be domesticated.

It is too easy to judge the effects of the sweeping Vatican excommunication decree—the last and most powerful weapon in the hands of the Roman Catholic Church.

That Communist leaders are fearful of it appears quite plain. The violence with which they reacted shows this.

Josef Cardinal Mindszenty and his faithful followers already were crushed in Hungary when the Vatican issued the decree.

In Czechoslovakia the Communist regime also was moving to throttle churches and schools. Without control of schools the Communist never can "educate" the generation for the world plan ahead.

The Greek Catholic, or Uniate Church, also had been crushed in Romania when Pope Pius XII issued his famous decree.

Czechoslovakian and Polish Communist leaders have threatened Catholics with treason trials if they obey the Pope. Since the countries are predominantly Catholic the struggle is bound to mount this fall, with what many observers believe will be much bloodshed.

The Communist leaders, especially in Italy where the country is almost entirely of the Catholic faith, have tried to represent themselves as believers in religious freedom. Their propaganda has been to the effect that the Vatican is ruled by "reactionaries."

Effect On Masses Some priests who have aided the Communists already have been denied church privileges. But it is impossible to say yet what effect the decree has had on the masses. Catholic leaders themselves say it is a matter largely of an "individual's conscience."

This is an attempt by the Vatican to draw a distinction between those Catholic leaders who actively aid the Communists and the helpless peasants who are forced to belong to various Communist-front organizations in many lands in order to survive.

Farmers must belong to cooperative groups controlled by Communists to get seed. Factory workers pay lip service to keep their jobs. It brings to mind the old quarrel of trying to decide what constituted "collaboration" in Nazi-occupied lands during the war.

Not only Communist leaders attacked the Vatican move. Some British socialist publications termed it a "totalitarian act"—a threat against poor, uneducated peasants.

Vatican spokesmen reject this reasoning. They say the Pope mainly is concerned with warning Catholic leaders that if they actively work for Moscow they work for the devil.

Personal Security What is so grand for personal security as to feel sure always we can count on those we love? You can see how this applies to the growing child, especially to the young child. Very early he discovers, without being told by anyone, whether or not he can count on us. If the infant on waking finds the child or some other familiar person on hand he feels to this degree secure. But suppose on waking he sees only a total stranger instead. How he may be shocked!

Or suppose his mother, after he was tucked in bed, slipped out to shop or make a call and suppose he awoke before her return, with nobody there at all. Suppose when the child is two or five his parents both slip away for the evening without telling him beforehand they are going. Even if the person left with him then is not a stranger, how may he feel, finding that the father and mother had gone without letting him know they were going?

After a number of such experiences the child may acquire all sorts of anxieties about the return of a parent who has gone away from the home leaving him, or about the possibility of either parent's leaving him unexpectedly.

In the following letter is an account of such anxieties. Notice that the mother says she used to slip out on her child, the father in going off to work didn't say goodbye to this lad; and that, presumably, the little boy didn't even know the father had planned to leave. Occasionally, a mother otherwise intelligent, will try to punish a child by threatening to go away from home and leave him.

Never Left Alone Of her boy, six years old, his mother writes: "He always has a fear of the child may acquire all sorts of anxieties about the return of a parent who has gone away from the home leaving him, or about the possibility of either parent's leaving him unexpectedly."

Josef Cardinal Mindszenty and his faithful followers already were crushed in Hungary when the Vatican issued the decree.

In Czechoslovakia the Communist regime also was moving to throttle churches and schools. Without control of schools the Communist never can "educate" the generation for the world plan ahead.

The Greek Catholic, or Uniate Church, also had been crushed in Romania when Pope Pius XII issued his famous decree.

Czechoslovakian and Polish Communist leaders have threatened Catholics with treason trials if they obey the Pope. Since the countries are predominantly Catholic the struggle is bound to mount this fall, with what many observers believe will be much bloodshed.

The Communist leaders, especially in Italy where the country is almost entirely of the Catholic faith, have tried to represent themselves as believers in religious freedom. Their propaganda has been to the effect that the Vatican is ruled by "reactionaries."

Effect On Masses Some priests who have aided the Communists already have been denied church privileges. But it is impossible to say yet what effect the decree has had on the masses. Catholic leaders themselves say it is a matter largely of an "individual's conscience."

This is an attempt by the Vatican to draw a distinction between those Catholic leaders who actively aid the Communists and the helpless peasants who are forced to belong to various Communist-front organizations in many lands in order to survive.

Farmers must belong to cooperative groups controlled by Communists to get seed. Factory workers pay lip service to keep their jobs. It brings to mind the old quarrel of trying to decide what constituted "collaboration" in Nazi-occupied lands during the war.

Not only Communist leaders attacked the Vatican move. Some British socialist publications termed it a "totalitarian act"—a threat against poor, uneducated peasants.

Vatican spokesmen reject this reasoning. They say the Pope mainly is concerned with warning Catholic leaders that if they actively work for Moscow they work for the devil.

Personal Security What is so grand for personal security as to feel sure always we can count on those we love? You can see how this applies to the growing child, especially to the young child. Very early he discovers, without being told by anyone, whether or not he can count on us. If the infant on waking finds the child or some other familiar person on hand he feels to this degree secure. But suppose on waking he sees only a total stranger instead. How he may be shocked!

Or suppose his mother, after he was tucked in bed, slipped out to shop or make a call and suppose he awoke before her return, with nobody there at all. Suppose when the child is two or five his parents both slip away for the evening without telling him beforehand they are going. Even if the person left with him then is not a stranger, how may he feel, finding that the father and mother had gone without letting him know they were going?

After a number of such experiences the child may acquire all sorts of anxieties about the return of a parent who has gone away from the home leaving him, or about the possibility of either parent's leaving him unexpectedly.

In the following letter is an account of such anxieties. Notice that the mother says she used to slip out on her child, the father in going off to work didn't say goodbye to this lad; and that, presumably, the little boy didn't even know the father had planned to leave. Occasionally, a mother otherwise intelligent, will try to punish a child by threatening to go away from home and leave him.

Never Left Alone Of her boy, six years old, his mother writes: "He always has a fear of the child may acquire all sorts of anxieties about the return of a parent who has gone away from the home leaving him, or about the possibility of either parent's leaving him unexpectedly."

Aid Sent To China Wasted

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—If anyone in the State Department had any illusions that the China White Paper would take the Chinese problem out of politics, they have been speedily disillusioned. Out of that document of 1,054 closely printed pages the partisans have taken what served their special ends.

It is like that ancient fable of the blind men and the elephant. Each grabs hold of one part of the vast and tragic bulk that is the China disaster and proclaims to the world and shape of the problem and what to do about it.

Needed Humility In view of what has happened, a little humility would have made the White Paper a more acceptable document. Wherever the fault is found finally to lie, the grim reality dwarfing everything else is the Communist conquest of China.

But at the same time it must be said that most of the critics of State Department policy—or lack of it—are speaking out of hind-sight. Today, with all the pieces in full view, you can say easily enough what should have been done.

One important piece of evidence has been generally overlooked in the news stories based on the voluminous White Paper. That is the report of Maj. Gen. David G. Barr, who was head of the military mission sent out to advise Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek. As reported some time ago in this space, Secretary of State Dean Acheson made Barr's report available privately to members of the Senate and House committees on foreign affairs.

Acheson hoped it would impress them as the impartial judgment of a military man with no political stake in the China quarrel. Last November 18 Barr, after 10 months in China, sent a confidential report to the department of the army in which he said:

"I am convinced that the military situation has deteriorated to the point where only the active participation of United States troops could effect a remedy. It has been obvious to me for some time that nothing short of a United States organization with the authority and facilities available to you on V-J Day, including a United States fed and operated supply pipe line, could remedy the situation. Military materiel and economic aid in my opinion are less important to the salvation of China than other factors. No battle has been lost since my arrival due to lack of ammunition or equipment."

"Unless all-out United States military assistance, including employment of United States forces, which I certainly do not recommend, is given the government in the new location, I recommend that the U. S. military mission be withdrawn in accordance with present plans."

Yet in spite of this judgment from an expert observer on the spot, what the opposition comes up with is a proposal for more aid to Nationalist China. Rep. John Davis Lodge of Connecticut, Republican, and Rep. Francis Walter of Pennsylvania, Democrat, would provide an additional $200,000,000. Senator William Knowland of California will try to add $175,000,000 in assistance to China onto the arms aid bill.

It would be fair, it seems to me, to ask these men if they approve the sending of United States troops to Nationalist China. That they would say yes is highly unlikely. To send troops would be to entangle this country inextricably in a civil war that now seems, by any objective judgment, to be lost.

To give you a rough idea of the weekly pay-check of a great star like Jack Benny, Cleveland Armory, tell of an afternoon in Palm Springs when one of Benny's writers returned from a visit to a nearby gambling rendezvous. "Gee whiz," reported the writer, "I saw one character drop a cool thousand dollars in fifteen minutes in a dice game."

"Ten thousand dollars!" echoed Benny. "If I ever lost that much in one evening, I think I'd cut my throat." "Yeah," Benny, sympathized the writer. "Just think—two whole days' work!"

Groucho Marx and a friend were caught in a sudden and torrential downpour just outside one of the most expensive restaurants in New York. "What'll we do?" demanded Groucho. "Stay here on the sidewalk and get wet, or go into that clip joint and get soaked?"

Running Mate For Taft

(By Holmes Alexander)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 12.—It was hard to tell last week whether the Republican National Committee was aiming to nominate Horatio Alger or Robert A. Taft for president in 1952. Possibly, they are to be running mates.

Horatio Alger, though dead and gone, was there in spirit. Most of the committee members were men and women who bore the Alger-style trade mark of business success. And Senator Brewster, the keynote orator, actually mentioned old Horatio by name. In seeking the highest possible praise of Guy George Gabrielson, the new Republican chairman, Brewster called him an Horatio Alger hero.

The reference was a trifle startling, but all dark horse nomination speeches have elements of surprise. Alger, of course, was the early century dime novelist who glorified the American rags-to-riches tradition. He had a plot formula which was a sure-fire success because it was so much in tune with the times. Hard as it is to believe nowadays, there was a day when the American populace and electorate believed that this was a land of opportunity. Old Horatio's formula never varied. Poor boys comes to big city, makes good in business by being plucky, lucky, industrious and honest.

Lots Of Political Tides A lot of political tides have run under the bridge since then. For more than 16 years the Democratic Party sloganeers have been adapting to their own ends Old Horatio's formula. Poor boy comes to city, joins the New Deal and then sits in the shade while the Federal government does the rest. In these days of the Tru Deal, the government undertakes to guarantee him a job, an annual raise, a house, a doctor and eventually an old-age pension. This sort of success story has a whopping big sale every election year.

Lately the GOP has been plagiarizing the Democratic dream book without much shame and with practically no profit. But the appearance of Old Horatio's name in Sen. Brewster's speech may mean something. This is the more possible since it happened at a time when Sen. Taft's name was being mentioned wherever the cigar smoke was thickest. Taft's man Gabrielson, won the chairmanship in a sort of trial-run test of strength for the 1952 nomination. The Dewey supporters never had a chance, and the Stassen followers went along fairly solidly with Taft.

Trying To Stop Dewey About this time last year there were breathless and sweaty couriers running between the Taft and Stassen hotel headquarters at the Republican Convention in Philadelphia. They were trying to make a stop-Dewey deal which never materialized. But it materialized last week, indicating that Taft is the only Republican who is bigger than he was a year ago.

But if he is to keep on growing, Taft must win—and win big—in next year's Ohio election for his own Senate seat. The most confident man I have talked to on this subject is Taft himself. He expects to win in Ohio by much the same methods he has been winning with in this year's Congress—by taking votes from the Democrats. This was how he beat down the Administration's frantic attempts to repeal the Taft-Hartley Act. Taft expects to win next year in Ohio by biting into the farmer-labor vote which elected Mr. Truman in '48.

He is confident that the Ohio farmers are not ready for Democratic collectivism, no matter what price is offered under the Brannan Plan. He is equally sure that a majority of union members are pro-labor but anti-boss. For these reasons Taft is openly hoping that his Ohio adversary will be Murray Lincoln, a farm bureaucrat (but not a real farmer) who is dickering for labor-boss endorsement on either or both tickets.

There are many who believe that Old Horatio, no leader than many Republican intellectuals, would make Taft an ideal running mate. It may be a popular fiction that America is still a land of opportunity, but it is a less harmful and more wholesome fiction than the Tru Deal version of the welfare state. A Taft-Alger ticket might be just the ticket.

Looking At Life

By ERICH BRANDEIS

Every time I write something about politics I think of the admonition given to me by my syndicate's sales manager, Frank Nicht: "Shoemaker, stick to your last."

"What has politics got to do with looking at life?" he asked me last week. "Why don't you leave politics to the experts?"

Well, Frank is a good friend of mine, and I have great respect for his judgment. After all, having sold features to 2,000 newspapers, for more than thirty years, he ought to know what they want.

But about this "shoemaker, stick to your last" business, I don't know. True, the shoemaker makes shoes and patches them. But I am one of the more than 140 million Americans who wear shoes. Shoes are not made for shoemakers. They are made for you and me.

By the same token, politics isn't made for politicians. Politics is supposed to be what's good for the people, and the people are supposed to know what's good for them, or this country wouldn't be a Republic.

This country would be what a lot of politicians try their darndest to make it—a giant swimming pool in which they can paddle around, catch private gold fish and enjoy themselves, while we, the people, stand around the edges, look on and get splashed.

So when I write about politics, I write about something that you and I may not know much about but that concerns us very much. Because those politicians spend your money and mine, money for which we work and that we are trying to save.

I don't know much about plumbing, either. But when I hire a plumber and pay him $3.50 an hour, I want to make darn sure that he is a good plumber and isn't going to waste any time.

I'll tell you what is bringing in this harangue. I don't like the way a lot of these politicians shoot off their mouths and try to make us believe that they know it all, and are better than we, just because we put them into nice Washington swivel chairs.

Just because a fellow is a good handshaker and on the right side of the fence doesn't make him an expert on foreign affairs or commerce or army and navy or finance any more than I am an expert on politics because I have a typewriter and a dictionary.

I got pretty darn mad when I read an editorial about Secretary of Commerce Charles Sawyer. According to the editorial, this fellow has gone from Washington to his home in Cincinnati on week-end trips five times since June 1. Every time he goes he uses one of the Civil Aeronautics Administration's DC-3 planes, maintained for "official travel."

The cost of these five round trips to us taxpayers, according to the editorial, has been $5,000. It took the total income tax of 92 married men (wife and two children) earning $3,000 a year to pay for Mr. Sawyer's trips so far this summer. The editorial, "He could have done it as commercial air liner for $280.

Do I have to be a political expert to resent that kind of waste of your and my hard-earned money? (Copyright, 1949, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

Babson Devotes Column To Discussing Children

By ROGER W. BABSON
(Copyright—1949—Publishers Financial Bureau, Inc.)

GLOUCESTER, Mass., Aug. 12.—I believe in children's summer camps. Money spent by parents thereon is well invested. But I do notice one thing with my grandchildren.

What About Summer Camps
The first summer when they are home alone, after being too old for camp, they are "lost" and know not what to do.

During previous summers while at camp, every hour of the day was planned for them; they merely followed their camp counselors and the other children. After outgrowing camp life and left to themselves, they appear helpless and bored, while children who never went to camp and lacked the many camp advantages are much happier.

The above does not mean we should deprive our children of camp life; but it does mean that camp owners should overcome this drawback. This correction is even more important in connection with the recreational programs which cities and towns are now putting on for children. Certain mornings each week I see a class of children following, like little soldiers, a teacher to the beach or a playground. They—like the camp children—are having their days planned for them during the summer vacation as well as during the school terms. As these children will be entirely "on their own" after graduating from school and going to work, it seems only reasonable to let them take care of themselves for two months each year so as to get used to individual responsibility.

Labor Leaders and Politicians

Certainly our public schools are not developing individual responsibility. Young people have too much given to them and are taught to "follow their leader" from birth until they get their first job. Therefore, it is natural that they will want a labor leader and ward politician to follow when they go to work. Certainly, our schools are making followers for the labor leaders. From this bad training children receive in school and during vacations they are unconsciously being trained to welcome fascists and communists. We are undermining democracy.

One of the first things every state should do is to repeal all laws which discourage children from taking jobs during vacations. If I want to hire one of my grandchildren for running errands in the office or working on the grounds outside, I must get various papers signed by the state and/or school authorities—provided they will sign them! The whole present system is wrong. Many children could acquire valuable habits and knowledge by summer work at almost any age. I worked for wages every vacation after I was 12 years old and the experience was of great value. It is a crime to rob children of this privilege today. Again I say we are undermining democracy and individual responsibility by so doing.

How A Utopia Will Come

I recently established a college in the center of the U. S.—at Eureka, Kan., and named it Utopia college. One reason for this name is because nearby are the remains of one of the Utopia socialist settlements of 75 years ago—much, like the others—failed because individual responsibility was lacking. They depend upon a leader. I took this name to impress upon the students that Utopias come not through socialist programs, but through honest competition. As an ending to this column on children, let me state what we teach the students at Utopia college, Eureka, Kan. Here it is:

The future of the United States—and every other country for that matter—depends only partly on scientific progress, or natural wealth or even cultural advantages. The advance of man everywhere depends upon the recognition that it is immoral to depend upon others or upon the government. Furthermore, that the essence of democracy is individual responsibility from babyhood. Of course, this demands an interest in our fellow men. But we should teach that—in the long run—we can help save our fellow men only as we save our ourselves physically, mentally and spiritually.

Smithsonian Institute, in Washington, D. V., was established by Congress in 1846.

Washington Has Treasure Hunt

For the past week the children have been asking, "What is the treasure going to be?" Wednesday afternoon they finally succeeded in finding the answer, but not until after an hour of hunting clues.

Groups were divided into two teams of thirty each, and then after a clue to the first note was read, both teams set out. The team finding each note first returned it to the instructor, to be read and then received a head start in search of the next clue.

Both groups raced from one end of the play ground to the other, yelling as they went. Team number one found the most notes, but when the treasure was finally located, there was a sucker for each child participating. After a well earned rest, two softball teams were chosen, one by Dale Matthews and the other by Bill Marguard.

Both boys and girls made up the teams, and an entertaining softball game followed with Dale's team being the victor when it was time to stop for the day.

Special event for next week will be announced later by the instructor, Shirley Cook. Those children wishing to go to Gaston Park, August 23, for Play Day are asked to contact the instructor as soon as possible for particulars.

THE FAMILY SCRAPBOOK

By DR. ERNEST G. OSBORNE

"STAND BY TO PICK UP THE PIECES"

"That's what parents should do—stand by to pick up the pieces." I was leading a discussion of youngsters in Ogden, Utah, when one of the boys made this point. The group was made up of boys and girls in their mid-teens. We were talking about how much control parents should have over the coming and going of their young people, their young people's friends, their reading, their movie going, their social life, generally.

The boy who made the comment developed his point. "Unless before a person is sixteen or so his parents have given him something to go on," he said. "It's too late to try to control him. We've got to learn what's right and wrong at least partly through our own experience. We'll make some mistakes but they won't be too serious if our folks have given us the right ideas earlier. And if we do make mistakes, they shouldn't take and 'I told you so' attitude, but should try to help us pick up the pieces."

You may not be able to accept this point of view in its entirety, but it's worth thinking about. These young people, whose parents continue to try to direct them in everything they do, have a very difficult time in learning to stand on their own feet. Or they may rebel and go much more against the things which mother and father think are right than they otherwise would.

Liquor Law Tax Violations Are Increasing

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—Liquor tax law violations are increasing and more stills were seized in the last fiscal year than in the preceding 12 months, the Internal Revenue Bureau reported today. Seizures totaled 8,008 stills, of which 282 were uncovered by the "combined operations" of land and air enforcement officers using planes. In fiscal 1948 there were 6,757 seizures. Arrests in fiscal 1949 totaled 8,894 against 7,640 in 1948.

Good Business Prospects Seen

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 12.—(INS)—A prominent Philadelphia industrialist today foresaw good business prospects for the last six months of this year. Edward C. Budd, Jr., president of the Budd company, pointed out that the automobile industry, on which Budd depends mainly for business, maintained a high production rate in the first seven months of the year. Barring strikes or unfavorable developments in the automobile market, prospects for the rest of the year are good, Budd said. Budd added that the railway division completed and delivered 166 cars in the first six months of 1949, compared with 117 cars in the first half of 1948.

Spinster Stabs Invalid Sister Then Suicides

ROBINSON, Ill., Aug. 12.—(INS)—Authorities reported today that a 73-year-old spinster who had been in ill health fatally stabbed her invalid sister whom she had sworn "never to leave behind" and then hacked herself to death with a rusty pocket knife.

Crawford County Coroner Troy L. Pulliam ruled the deaths "murder and suicide."

Victims of the tragedy in a farm home near Robinson were Lucy Richart and her bedridden sister, Faith, 50.

Faith's body was found in her bed yesterday. Lucy's knife-punctured form was found in a pool of blood at the foot of the bed. Eight to 10 knife wounds were visible in her breast.

A scribbled note was discovered near the bodies. Most of it was illegible but one line read in part: "Good night here. Good morning over there."

Sheriff C. T. West said he was told Lucy threatened to take her life a few days ago. He added that the woman, one of four elderly spinster sisters, often had remarked she could never die and leave Faith behind.

Good Business Prospects Seen
PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 12.—(INS)—A prominent Philadelphia industrialist today foresaw good business prospects for the last six months of this year. Edward C. Budd, Jr., president of the Budd company, pointed out that the automobile industry, on which Budd depends mainly for business, maintained a high production rate in the first seven months of the year. Barring strikes or unfavorable developments in the automobile market, prospects for the rest of the year are good, Budd said. Budd added that the railway division completed and delivered 166 cars in the first six months of 1949, compared with 117 cars in the first half of 1948.

Coal Strike In Australia Ends

SYDNEY, Aug. 12.—(INS)—The Australian government defeated a six weeks old coal strike Thursday when the miners' central executive committee authorized the strikers to return to the pits Aug. 15. The government has called the strike communist-organized.

R. Hamilton, acting general president of the Miners' Federation, said the miners voted against continuing the strike last night when they rejected a resolution from the communist-led national council asking new wage talks with the government.

More than 23,000 miners walked out June 27 before an arbitration tribunal decided on their demands for a $5 weekly pay hike, a 35-hour week and nationalization of the industry.

An average of about 65,000,000 riders daily is transported on trackless trolleys, street cars and buses in the United States. This number equals the combined populations of Great Britain and Canada.

Woman In Hospital At Memphis After Island Gun Duel

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Aug. 12.—(INS)—A 22-year-old Memphis woman is in serious condition as a result of a gun duel on a Mississippi river island.

Police said that Homer Gibson, 75, and Mrs. Lillian Curry, 22, shot it out as they walked slowly toward each other from 75 feet away. Gibson was firing a .12 gauge shotgun. The woman was using a 410 shotgun.

Mrs. Curry was seriously wounded in the abdomen. Gibson was hit between the eyes, but hospital attendants said his injuries were not serious.

Mrs. Curry's mother—Mrs. Susie Allen, 51—was wounded slightly in the shoulder when she tried to run between the two.

Authorities said the trouble started Tuesday when Gibson complained about the noise made by two Curry children.

The argument was renewed on Wednesday. Gibson told police that the young mother struck him with a stick and he knocked her down.

Then, he said, both went to their homes for guns and returned to battle it out.

Canadian Cold Air Moving Southward

NEW YORK, Aug. 12.—(INS)—There's some happy lend-lease on the way from Canada to parts of the sweltering east.

It's a mass of cold air already moving on northern New England and due in some interior sections of New York and New Jersey today.

But the weather bureau couldn't promise anything except possible "fringes" of the Canadian air conditioning for the eastern seaboard. It's still in the 90's in New York and elsewhere along the coast, with more of the same in sight for today.

"Assignment; America"

By INEZ ROBB
(Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.)
(Distributed by International News Service)

NEW YORK, Aug. 12.—(INS)—We Americans, devout rubber-neckers and nomads, at last have a comprehensive guide book to our own native land.

"The American Guide," just off the Hastings House presses, devotes 1,348 pages and more than 1,100,000 words to a blow-by-blow description of the United States from Abajo Peak (Utah) to Zurich (Mont.).

It is a stunning compendium of fact, fiction, legend, local color and history that is twice as long as "Forever Amber" and a million times more interesting. No Hamlet has been neglected in any of the 48 states, no cow path overlooked. It is guaranteed to keep every American with a jalopy or better on the open road for the rest of his natural life.

Things He Never Knew
Whether the All-American tourist, unlimited, wants a transcontinental trip or whether he is planning a safari only 50 miles from home, I'll bet he'll find in this book a wealth of information he never knew before.

Until I dipped into this guide, I was monumentally ignorant of the fact the first ice cream in America was made at Wiscasset, Me., and served to Gen. Lafayette, or that Rosa Bonheur, famous for paintings of horses, was commissioned and painted the first likeness of that intrepid American quadruped, Bull Durham.

State by state, "The American Guide" dissects the nation's highways and by-ways and folk lore. It took four and a half years, 32 editors, more than 1,000 consultants, some 10,000 contributors and 20,000 letters to compile the book. Henry G. Alsberg, editor-in-chief, said as he sat in the offices of Hastings House.

Got Head Start
Alsberg got a head start on the job when he served as head of the federal writers' project in the 'thirties, when the WPA compiled guide books to each of the 48 states.

A big man, with a skyscraper brow topped by disheveled iron gray hair, deep set eyes and a prominent nose above a small, sandy moustache, Alsberg said that the chief tourist attractions for Americans in their own land are: Williamsburg, Va., New York City, Yellowstone National Park, the Grand Canyon, the Yosemite, Washington, D. C., California and Hollywood; San Francisco, New Orleans, Charleston, S. C., Boston, Niagara Falls, Chicago and Florida.

These are not named in the order of their popularity, but as they occurred to Alsberg. In New York, the Statue of Liberty is still a prime tourist must with Americans, as well as the Empire State Building and Rockefeller Center.

As he was compiling this exciting guide to the United States, Alsberg was particularly struck by (1) the "toughness" of the American pioneer woman and (2) the number of communal or Communist settlements attempted in the nineteenth century by political idealists or religious fanatics.

Ample Evidence
"The American Guide" gives ample evidence of both. Alsberg himself mentioned in some awe, as evidence of the first, a Mrs. Hannah Dustin of Haverhill who, with a nurse, small child and a young boy, was kidnapped by the Indians in 1697.

Hannah, annoyed beyond endurance at such effrontery, eventually worked her way back to Haverhill, with nurse, child and boy unscathed, and with ten Indian scalps hanging from her belt.

Alsberg found a tremendous interest throughout the nation in the preservation of historic landmarks. He himself is convinced there should be a federal board charged with such matters, as well as with the protection of the nation's highways and continuing encroachments by billboards and hot-dog stands.

This book is so full of lively information and fascinating Americana my only fear for it is that it will appeal not only to tourists but to the Cretins who originate radio quiz programs.

"The American Guide," an incomparable Baedeker and worth every penny of its steep price ($7.50) will be a shot in the arm to the Quiz Kids who would be better off with a square hole in the head.

Two Girls Die In Crash Of Truck

HUNTINGDON, Pa., Aug. 12.—(INS)—Two teen aged Boalsburg girls were killed en route to an outing at Whipple Dam when the truck in which they were riding overturned on a Tussey mountain highway.

Fourteen-year-old Joan Hess was killed instantly when pinned beneath the truck while Nancy K. Jones, 16, died in J. C. Blair Memorial Hospital at Huntingdon.

Eight other young girls escaped injury. Police said the brakes on the truck, driven by Mrs. Myrtle Williams, 27, of Boalsburg, apparently failed to hold on a steep grade.

HEALTH TEST FOR 873,867 PUPILS

HARRISBURG.—State Secretary of Health Dr. Norris W. Vaux, today reported a total of 873,867 pupils in schools of the commonwealth have been given complete medical and dental examinations since the first of the 1948-1949 school year as required by the Pennsylvania School Health Law.

These pupils are from all school districts of Pennsylvania, and of the total examined 288,548 are in the fourth (rural) districts.

According to Dr. Vaux, the estimated responsibility of the Health department for school health examinations in the year is 900,000 pupils. A total of 26,100 unexamined pupils is accounted for by absence at the time of examination; and interruptions in 24 fourth class districts in which the program was interrupted through illness of doctors, lack of nurses and administrative problems.

There were 1,995 physicians, 1,500 dentists and 1,374 nurses engaged in the work.

Dr. Vaux said it was too early to give an accurate figure on follow-up but that school district reports now on file indicate a decrease in the number of children reported with remediable defects, of from five to 15 per cent over the number in the previous examination of the same group.

Special classes set up for treatment of selected cases included: vision aids, hearing correction, restricted activity for heart cases; corrective exercises for orthopedic cases (mostly polio); special lunches for malnourished children; and restricted programs after serious illness.

In obtaining the corrections nurses referred pupils to the family physicians, the State Bureau of Rehabilitation, Pennsylvania Department of Health Clinics, hospital clinics and school clinics.

The Pennsylvania School Health

Law enacted in the 1945 General Assembly provides for the complete medical and dental examination of all children of school age, teachers and other employees in public and private elementary and secondary schools of the commonwealth.

Rescuing Fireman And Girl Are Hurt In Fall From Ladder

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Aug. 12.—(INS)—A fireman and a seriously burned 18-year-old girl he had rescued from a flaming building fell Thursday from a fire ladder at Wilkes-Barre.

Forty persons were driven into the street by the fire. Taken to Mercy hospital was Miss Shirley Geiger, who had been trapped on a third floor ledge of a four-story apartment building. Fireman Robert Cross had crawled to her rescue on an aerial ladder and was carrying her to safety when the ladder apparently became too great and they both tumbled to the street.

Cross was treated at Wilkes-Barre Homeopathic hospital. Minor injuries were sustained by Mrs. Howard Pollitz who resided in the building.

WOMAN ENDS LIFE

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 12.—(INS)—Pittsburgh police said today that fear that she was going blind caused a 75-year-old widow to take her life by slashing her wrists.

The body of Mrs. Laura Hillary was discovered yesterday slumped in a chair in her home. She left a note telling of her fears, police said.

The Chamber of Commerce originated in Europe when the old guild system was gradually eliminated.

Plan Program In State To Improve Polio Victims Care

HARRISBURG, Aug. 12.—(INS)—An intensive statewide program aimed at improving care for poliomyelitis victims will be launched next week at Harrisburg.

State Health Secretary Norris W. Vaux announced last night that representatives of Pennsylvania health and welfare organizations will meet at the capitol August 19 to blueprint the program.

One hundred and twenty three infantile paralysis cases have been reported to the department since January 1.

Vaux said the conference will establish a group to be known as the state polio planning committee to "develop a plan to insure good, complete care for children and adults with poliomyelitis."

Health and welfare representatives will exchange information regarding interests and responsibilities of their organizations, Vaux explained. Representatives of other agencies will be included if the need for expansion of the committee is indicated, he added.

Invited to participate in the program are the state medical society and nurses' and hospital associations, the Red Cross, the state welfare department, the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, National Society for Crippled Children and Adults and the Pennsylvania Physical Therapists association.

Earmarked for discussion by the group are the problems of increasing bed capacity for acute, convalescent and long-term cases; providing adequate equipment and additional professional personnel for hospitals, and planning care to maintain contacts between patient and family.

BANK DEPOSITS

HARRISBURG, Aug. 12.—(INS)—Deposits in state banking institutions increased $54,773,724 to a total of $4,432,880,950 during the year ended June 30.

In a report on the condition of banks in the commonwealth, the state banking department today reported depositors increased from 4,059,020 to 4,168,520.

WASHINGTON CALLING

China tragedy. The opposition has gone on repeating a formula for salvation that has so obviously been discredited.

They have failed to come up with any constructive new approach. There may be such an approach in the Pacific pact which President Elpidio Quirino of the Philippine Republic is championing. Or it might be in a greatly increased program of assistance to other Asiatic countries, conspicuously India, where the Communists are now pressing hard.

An over-all plan for reinforcing the bastion of Formosa, with American aid channeled by Americans to constructive purposes, might be the answer. But it will not do merely to send good money after bad. One thing the White Paper does document on the testimony of men or varying views—most of the aid sent to China from this country since the end of the war has been wasted. To continue that waste would be a political gesture of the utmost folly. (Copyright, 1949, by United Feature Syndicate, Inc.)

Observance Of Feasts Planned By Southside

Feast Of Assumption; Feast Of St. Rocco, August 15-16 Program Is Scheduled

Reviving two well-known feasts which were always observed before World War II, members of the St. Vitus church Holy Name are making efforts to have a celebration on August 15, Feast of the Assumption of the Blessed Virgin Mary and August 16, Feast of St. Rocco.

The entire community will participate in the two-day observance and it is the society's hope that the celebration will continue in future years.

On Sunday, August 14, the Holy Name society will receive holy communion in a body.

Plan Program

Monday, August 15, low masses will be offered in St. Vitus church at 7, 9 and 12 o'clock noon. The solemn high mass will be sung at 10:30 a. m. and Rev. Fr. Nicholas DeMila will be celebrant.

At 7 p. m. until 12 p. m. street and other social events are scheduled.

High and low masses will also be offered on Tuesday. In the evening at 7 the band concert will be offered by the Red Coat band, sponsored by Local 27, A. F. of M.

At 11 p. m. the grand display of fireworks will be held on the B. and O. grounds.

Jefferson street and Maitland street will be decorated, where many activities are scheduled to take place during the two-day festival.

Celebration Is Old

The celebration of the assumption on August 15 was first held in 1898 on the old ball ground, now the location of the B. & O. freight depot. The bands participating were the Rocchetta's concert band of Pittsburgh and the Citizen's band of New Castle, under the direction of William (Billy) Parsons, and the St. Mary's band, directed by Thomas F. Driscoll. The fireworks display was furnished by the Rossi fireworks company of New Castle. The two-day celebration was held annually until 1938. It was later disbanded because of World War II.

Great Books Forum Session

The Roman poet Lucretius of first century B. C. might have been surprised by the modern workout given his works by the members of the Great Book Forum at the Public Library Tuesday evening. The discussion was led by Mrs. Ralph Weide and Thomas Weide. The meeting was well attended and participation 100%.

The next meeting August 23 will discuss the Meditations of Marcus Aurelius under the leadership of Franklyn Blanning. The Public Library has several copies of the book. If they are taken, read and returned promptly most of the group can be provided with the text.

GROOMING HINTS FOR HANDS

An ounce of prevention will help keep homemakers' hands well groomed and attractive in spite of housecleaning and garden work.

Homemakers are advised to make a habit of wearing gloves while sweeping, gardening, and doing any work which might cause calluses, blisters or scratches on the hands. A cream or lotion applied to hands also will help protect them during these tasks. Dirt and stains will be easier to remove with soap and water if cream has been applied beforehand.

Lotion may be kept handy on the kitchen shelf. To keep hands soft, homemakers should use lotion on their hands after washing clothes or dishes. To help remove stubborn stains from hands, use lemon juice, vinegar, or rhubarb juice.

A few minutes each day spent on manicuring nails may not only save embarrassment but also will help protect fingernails. Every woman should carry an emery board in her purse and keep one handy in the kitchen for smoothing and rounding toenails before tears can become larger.

Shape nails with an emery board to follow the natural curve of the finger. Use a nail brush and orange stick to clean the nails. Practice pushing back the cuticle each time when washing hands.

Worn-off polish does not add to the smart appearance of the hands. If one does not have time to apply fresh nail polish, her hands will look better groomed without polish.

GIVE PULLETS AMPLE GRIT, SHELL MATERIAL

As pullets mature they need more lime for strong bodies and to make good egg shells. Hence it is a wise practice to keep a hopper of shell making material before them after six weeks of age, whether confined to buildings or on range.

They need phosphorus and other minerals, too, but in lesser amounts, and these usually are supplied in the mash mixture, in pasture grasses, and in the materials which also provide lime.

On range, chickens pick up small pebbles or stones which help perform some of the functions of grit, as do oyster shells which supply highly-soluble lime.

For continuous service as grit, poultrymen use some insoluble material, but on range provide soluble lime material to keep the birds from over-eating hard grit.

IMPROVE RANGE SERVICE BY REGULAR FEEDINGS

Ranges will do a better job during the busy months of canning and extra cooking if homemakers keep them clean. Homemakers are urged to keep their ranges free from dust, grease and rust. A clean range helps keep the kitchen clean and free from smoke odors.

It is easier to clean the enameled surfaces of a range as soon as food is spilled rather than after it has dried. Use a dry cloth or paper for wiping up spilled food. If foods, especially greasy ones, scorch onto the range, they may have to be removed by scouring. Scour carefully so as not to scratch the surface.

Metal and porcelain surfaces need frequent washing with a cloth moistened in warm suds of mild soap or detergent. This should be done only when the range is cool. Using this method on a hot range may crack the enamel or burn a homemakers hands.

Charred particles on burners, heating units, and in ovens may be brushed off after the range cools. Gas burners which have become clogged may be cleaned and opened up with a metal hairpin or wire. Since ovens are usually closed so that spills cannot be seen, some homemakers may let spilled food accumulate inside.

Diluted ammonia will help remove scorched-on grease in the oven. Apply it with a cloth, or set a dish holding an ammonia-soaked cloth in a closed oven overnight to let the fumes loosen the soil. Then scour lightly with very fine scouring powder. After using an oven, leave it open to cool and dry out.

Steam, close in, will cause rust and give an unpleasant odor.

RENOVATE PASTURES ON POOR, THIN SODS

Most important and simplest way of improving poor pasture is top-dressing with liberal application of lime, phosphate, and if possible, manure. Such treatment thickens the existing grasses and legumes into a productive sod.

In the case of many very poor pastures or old timothy fields, tearing up the old sod and sowing seed of desired grasses and legumes, plus the soil improvement, will give quicker and more abundant returns. This treatment also is useful in making over poor sods into supplementary pastures of orchard grass and Ladino clover or alfalfa to produce grass-legume silage in early summer and excellent pasture in July and August.

Thorough rooting up and killing the old sod to give the new seeding a good chance of survival is the most important step in the preparation. Late summer and fall is the best time to start. A heavy tractor disk or a bush and bog harrow will be most effective, but a sharp spring-tooth harrow with plenty of clearance often does very well. Plowing is not recommended because it will lead to washing of slopes and it buries the old growth instead of leaving it to form a valuable mulch.

Lime, one to two tons an acre, may be applied last before disking starts so that it will be worked well into the soil. If superphosphate is used it may be put on in the fall without fear of loss. Potash and nitrogen will help to get best results on some soils, but mixed fertilizer may better be held for spring application. Apply manure in winter and spring.

Sow the seed very early in spring, possibly working it in with a light harrowing or cultipacking. Success of the seeding will depend on the thoroughness of soil preparation and liberal liming and fertilization. All seedings should include one pound of Ladino clover, several pounds of red or alsike clover, and four or five pounds of timothy.

If the area is to be mowed yearly, six pounds of alfalfa and three to five pounds of orchard grass may be included. Otherwise, use four to six pounds Kentucky bluegrass and two pounds of redbud. All legumes should be inoculated with the proper bacteria.

Further information may be obtained by contacting the Agricultural Extension Office, 206 Post Office Building, New Castle.

Vice President Has Another Date

St. Louis Woman Friend To Be Guest At Paducah, Ky., This Week End

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 12.—(INS)—Vice President Alben Barkley has another date with his "lovely, charming" St. Louis woman friend, Mrs. Carleton S. Hadley said today that she and her 17-year-old daughter have accepted an invitation by the vice president to visit his home town of Paducah, Ky., with him this weekend.

While there they will meet some of Barkley's relatives and friends and also attend a ceremony at which the Paducah airport will be named in the "veep's" honor.

The 71-year-old widower first met the attractive, 37-year-old St. Louis widow early this summer in Washington. Since then he has flown twice to St. Louis for week-end visits with her, stimulating far-reaching reports of an impending marriage.

Both, however, have denied a report that they would be wed in Paducah this weekend or in St. Louis the following Saturday.

Perhaps significantly, however, Mrs. Hadley would not comment when asked if some other date had been set for a wedding.

Mrs. Hadley's husband, the general counsel of the Wabash railroad, died unexpectedly in 1945 at the age of 42.

Lehman And Dulles Willing To Make Race For Place In Senate

(Special to Central Press)
WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—Despite public statements to the contrary, both Gov. Herbert H. Lehman and Senator John Foster Dulles are considered willing to make the United States Senate race in New York next year.

Lehman's spirited defense of Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt in her controversy with Cardinal Spellman is seen as indication that he has made up his mind to accept the Democratic senatorial nomination.

Political experts say that Lehman's defense of Mrs. F. D. R. was a carefully calculated risk. Lehman courted disfavor of hundreds of thousands of New York Catholic voters but made a bid to capture an equal or greater number of "borderline" voters.

Dulles, in his corner, has begun to like the Senate much better than he had anticipated. The Dewey machine regards the GOP foreign affairs expert as the one man capable of winning the Senate race.

In any event, the election will be a blistering contest, for both Lehman and Dulles are men of great stature with powerful forces behind them.

ARMS OUTLOOK
Odds are against President Truman's $1,450,000,000 "arms to friends" program being approved at this session of Congress.

Supporters of the plan doubt that there will be time to get the measure through the House and the Senate before Congress adjourns.

The arms proposal still faces a hard fight in Senate and House committees and on the floors of the two chambers before it can be enacted into law.

Strong Republican opposition to the size of the Truman arms programs is certain to slow its progress on Capitol Hill. GOP leaders want a smaller, stop-gap plan. This GOP sentiment is believed strong enough to whittle down the amount of arms aid which eventually may be approved by Congress.

CHINESE REDS
Great Britain is becoming increasingly disturbed over the apparently unimpeded progress of Chinese Communist forces sweeping down into South China.

British concern is centered on Hong Kong, a crown colony. Belief is that if the Reds seize Canton, present capital of the Nationalist regime, the next move may be toward nearby Hong Kong, long coveted by the Communists.

In preparation for the worst, the British have dispatched reinforcements to Hong Kong. By September, 14,000 crack troops will be ready to fight for defense of the island.

This force will be supported by naval and air groups—strong enough, according to British sources, to keep the Union Jack flying over the colony indefinitely. The British feel they can overcome superiority in numbers by the quality of their weapons and the experience of their commanders.

ANTI-SUBMARINE WARFARE
The Navy-Air Force squabble over heavy bombing rights has overshadowed the work the sea service has been doing on its primary mission of anti-submarine warfare.

Naval aviation forces believe they have a right in the bombing picture, but in case they lose their fight they mean to have a first-class record to show in anti-submarine developments.

Particular emphasis is being placed upon aerial means of fighting and enemy undersea fleet, as a method of strengthening the Navy's case in the strategic bombardment dispute.

One of the prime weapons nearing completion is a 60-ton flying boat powered by four jet turbine engines. The sub-hunter is being built by Consolidated Vultee. It is known as the XP5Y, and will fly next year.

Boasting the highest speed of any flying boat and loaded with electronic U-boat-location gear, the latest in the famed line of "Cat" boats will be able to seek out and destroy undersea marauders.

Amish Buggy Loses Wheels In Accident

Damage of around $35 resulted on Thursday, when an Amish buggy driven by Valentine J. Byler, aged 48, of R. D. 1, New Wilmington and an automobile driven by Wilson M. Myers, aged 31, of R. D. 1, Edenburg, collided on Route 551, one mile north of Pulaski.

According to Myers, he was traveling north on Route 551 when he noticed the horse drawn vehicle approaching in the other direction. The buggy, it was reported to State Police pulled to the left and the gasoline propelled vehicle sideswiped the Amish wagon. Wheels of the Amish carriage were damaged considerably and a small amount of damage occurred to the automobile.

State Police, who investigated the accident, stated that no one was injured in the freak crash.

Businessman Says He Paid Hunt $1000

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—(INS)—A Milwaukee businessman testified Thursday that he paid James V. Hunt $1,000 while Hunt was a War Assets Administration consultant in an effort to obtain sheet steel.

The witness, Albert J. Gross, told a senate committee investigating Washington influence-selling that "we never got a penny's worth of anything—not even a decent letter" from Hunt, an alleged "five percent."

This testimony came after evidence was barred that Hunt received "confidential" government information. The senate investigators branded this incident "an open invitation to bribery and connivance."

Three More Rests Being Added To State's Highways

HARRISBURG.—Three more roadside rests are being added to the ten established earlier. Secretary of Highways Ray F. Smock announced today.

The new installations to be opened by autumn are along: U. S. 220 near Howard in Centre county; U. S. 309 between Mauch Chunk and Nesquehoning and U. S. 611 south of Daleville in Lackawanna county.

Widespread popularity of the State Highway Department's roadside rests is attested by the guest register and comments of visitors to the Clearfield county installation along U. S. 322 between Grampan and DuBois.

During a recent weekend, visitors from states as far distant as Arizona were registered. Pennsylvanians naturally predominated but Ohio, West Virginia and New York were well represented by Michigan and Indiana motorists also among those present.

In an effort to secure constructive suggestions toward this innovation which is designed to permit a relaxing rest period amid pleasant natural surroundings, the Highway department requests comments from visitors.

The following are typical of those reported by N. E. Bartholomew, district superintendent from Clearfield county: "Let's have more of these road rests"; "Think these are fine"; "We need more of these rest spots"; "A lovely spot to rest."

The State Highway Department has established ten roadside rests and is constructing the three to the Clearfield county installation along U. S. 322 between Grampan and DuBois.

The rests are equipped with water, picnic tables and other conveniences and are designated to supply what their name implies, namely, a resting spot where motorists may relax on their trips throughout Pennsylvania.

Behind Scenes Battles Faced

GOP's New Strategy Chief Will Have Some Straightening Out Problems

OTHER NEWS OF NATIONAL AFFAIRS

(Special to Central Press)
WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—Arthur Summerfield, rich Michigan auto dealer, was named to the top post on the GOP national strategy committee in an effort to restore the harmony which has been conspicuously absent from the Republican high command for some time.

However, Summerfield has enemies and some observers think he will find it difficult to bring peace to the ranks.

A leader in the anti-Summerfield bloc is former National Committeewoman Regina C. Hay, also of Michigan. Her political acumen won her the secretaryship of the 1948 Republican national convention.

However, Summerfield supported Mrs. Rae C. Hooker in a contest for Mrs. Hay's national committee post, and after a bitter struggle Mrs. Hooker won out.

This cost the party the services of Mrs. Hay as an organizer, but she is not expected to remain inactive.

Instead, persons well-informed on the Michigan political situation expect her to conduct a campaign to keep Summerfield from becoming too powerful a figure in the party.

A hectic behind-the-scenes battle appears certain to develop.

BI-PARTISAN CRACKING?

Some Washington observers believe they can discern cracks in the bi-partisan foreign policy on Capitol Hill. These cracks seemed to become more apparent as arguments got hotter in the final days of the Senate debate on the now-ratified North Atlantic Pact.

It is generally conceded that the prestige of Senator Arthur Vandenberg (R, Michigan), and his excellent skill in bringing most of his Republican colleagues into line behind the administration's foreign program is the only thing preventing a split and a knock-down-drag-out battle on every foreign policy matter that comes before Congress.

There are rumors on "the hill," however, that Vandenberg is finding it difficult to stomach some of the projects he must back in his unique role.

It is said that he has been having frequent struggles with himself over whether he should continue to go along or take a chance on "blowing the lid off" by speaking his mind.
Even should Vandenberg continue his present role, the forthright position taken by Senator Robert A. Taft (O), on the pact gives rise to speculation that he may become the rallying point for growing opposition to America's present course in foreign affairs.

MUZZLE ON THE NAVY

The navy air arm may be muzzled in its criticism of the overall Defense department aviation policy, but some Marine flyers have learned to express their disapproval without even speaking.

They listen without official comment to defense discussion they may hear in bars, at parties and even in the Pentagon.
However, their disapproval of the Air Force and its B-36 program is evident. Whenever the giant bomber is mentioned, they turn to the east and bow solemnly as a Moslem praying to Mecca.
Sometimes, they even do the same thing when Defense Secretary Louis Johnson is mentioned.

AIR ANGLE

The Air Force is banking heavily on a radical new "triangle wing" fighter plane to become the most controllable aircraft in its growing supersonic stable.
All the other faster-than-sound planes being developed for the air arm have swept-back wings to knife through the turbulence which besets them at speeds between 600 and 900 miles per hour.

The new Convair XF-92 is, in effect, a triangular wing. One point is headed forward and the pilot's cockpit is plopped down in the middle.
Truly a ship with a tail, XF-92 has "elevons" for both aileron (turning) and elevator (up and down) action.
Research indicates that this so-called "Delta Configuration" will cut through bubbling air even more smoothly than the plain, sweptback wing.

Donald A. Zuzow Is With Atlantic Fleet

Donald A. Zuzow, apprentice seaman, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Zuzow of Hanna street, is serving aboard the attach cargo ship USS Whitley with the Atlantic Fleet.

Zuzow, who entered the naval service Nov. 4, 1948, received his recruit training at the naval training center, Great Lakes, Ill.

A typical American house has about 1,500 feet of electric wiring.

County Is Organized To Meet Any Emergency

Emergency chart showing numbers to call and persons to contact in case of disaster or emergency of any kind has been prepared through the joint efforts of the city, county and rescue division of the local Red Cross chapter.

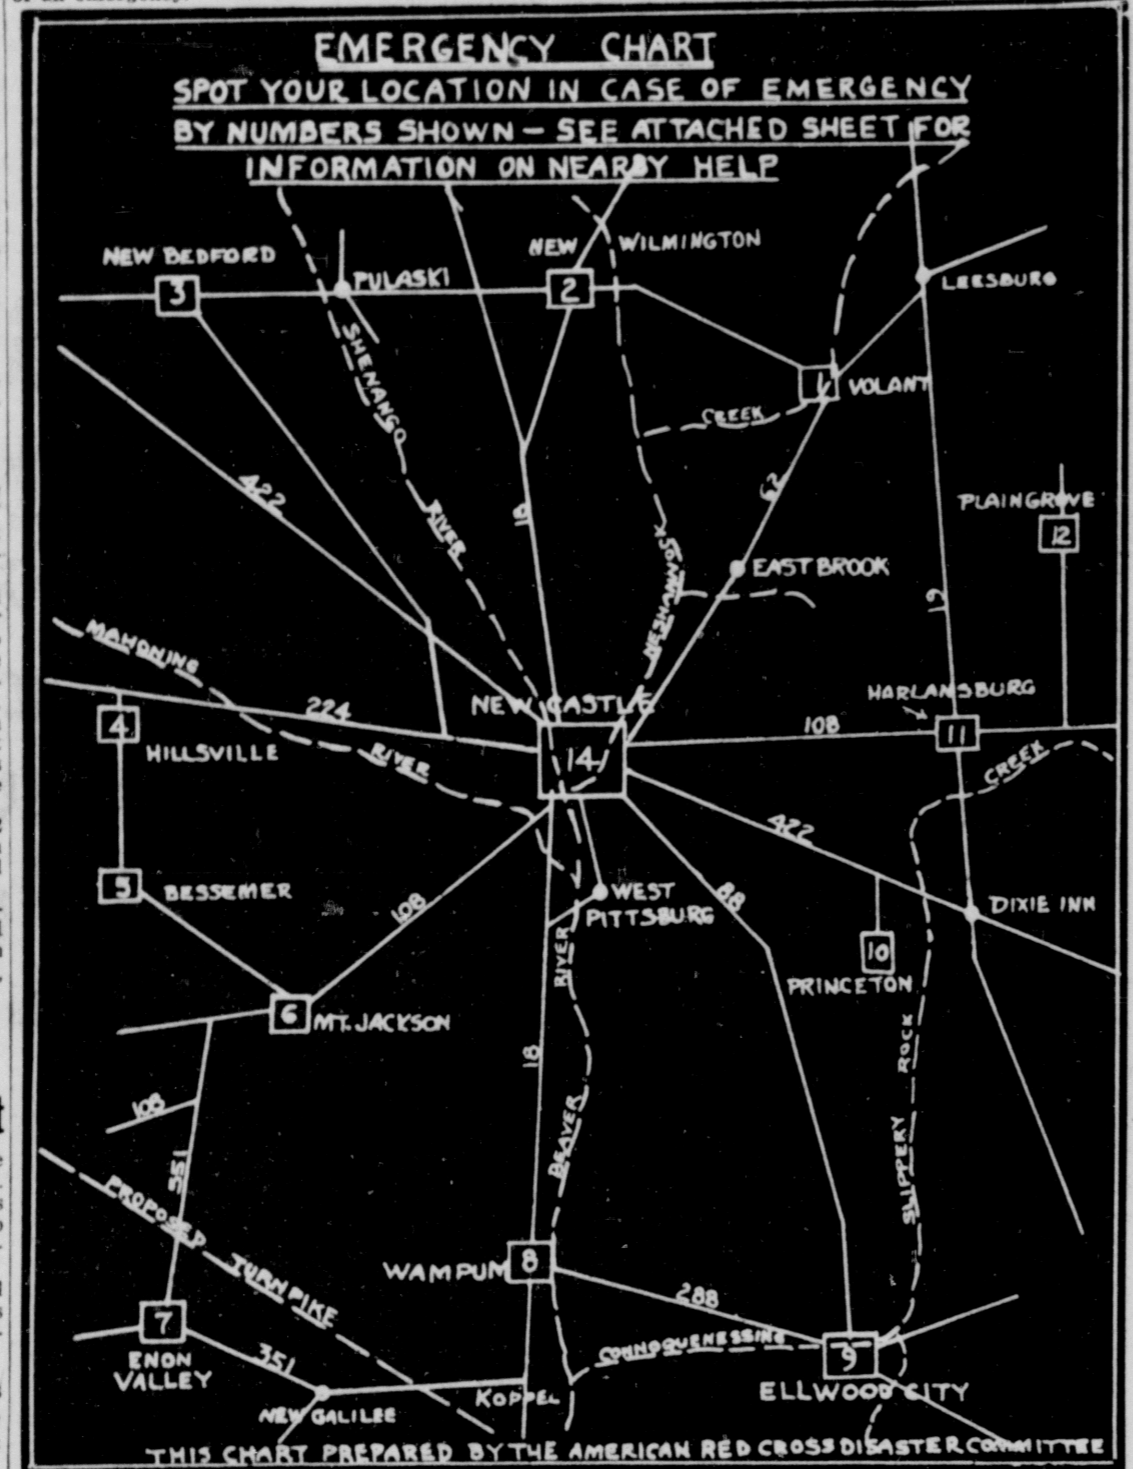

This chart lists nearest doctors, fire departments, first aid equipment and other necessary aid for use in case of a disaster in any section of the county.

It is hoped that through this organization and mobilization of facilities that prompt aid can be given to any persons in the county needing it.

Arrangements for the organization were made at a meeting of county groups on Tuesday, July 19. It was planned at that time to mobilize all facilities and present it to the public in the form of a chart.

Since that time all persons concerned, under the direction of Ralph Davis, chairman of the disaster committee of the Lawrence county chapter of the Red Cross, have been working hard to prepare this information.

All city and county residents should clip this article and keep it handy for quick reference in case of an emergency.

State Capitol

Apathy Is Seen On State Battle

Only One State Office To Be
At Stake In Elections
This Fall

OTHER NEWS OF STATE AFFAIRS

HARRISBURG, Aug. 12.—(INS)—The September 13 primary election is just a month away but both major political parties in the state seem to have assumed that "apathy" of which they so often accuse voters... Despite the nearness of the date, neither party has opened its campaign, other than endorsing official party candidates... The chief factor contributing to the slowness of the campaign is the fact that only one state office will be at stake in the November 8 election... That is the superior court post now held by Judge William E. Hirt, of Erie... There will be no primary fight for the judgeship... Hirt will be opposed in the general election by Judge Harry M. Montgomery of the Allegheny county common pleas court.

As part of its campaign, the Pennsylvania Federation of Labor (AFL) is urging its local labor leagues for political education to make use of a series of 13 recordings prepared by the National LLPE... The discs feature senators, congressmen and labor leaders in discussions of issues important to the working man... Each disc runs for 13 minutes and, according to the PFL, "should be broadcast by local stations on a free public service sustaining basis"...

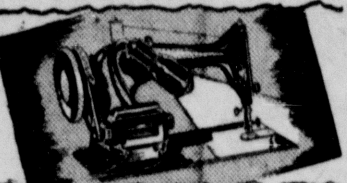

The Legislative Journal, the day-by-day record of proceedings of the General Assembly, is expected to be in complete form by mid-October... the journal of the 1947 legislature wasn't completed until November of 1948—two months before the 1949 legislature opened... This year's journal has been completely transcribed and turned over to the printer... The latest daily issue in print covers the proceedings of April 4... As a result of the delay in printing of the 1947 record, lawmakers became so incensed that a special committee was appointed by the joint state government commission to inquire into the matter.

Philip Mathews, a Carlisle manufacturer and chairman of the Democratic State committee, has been mentioned as a crackerjack candidate for governor in 1950... Mathews is a graduate of the U. S. Military Academy and served on General John J. Pershing's staff in World War I. He headed the WPA in Pennsylvania during the salad days of the New Deal... So far, Mathews has not indicated any interest in the gubernatorial campaign.

Walter Whitman, supervising principal, announced that school will open Tuesday, Sept. 6. Playground officials have announced that activities will end Monday at the park.

Other important school dates announced by Mrs. Whitman are: Oct. 5, 6 and 7 Teachers Institute; Nov. 11, Armistice Day vacation; Nov. 24-25, Thanksgiving vacation; Dec. 24-Jan. 3, Christmas vacation; April 7, Easter vacation; June 2, school closes.

The field day program scheduled for today (Friday) at the playground was postponed until Monday. Arrangements are being made by Mrs. Robert Eagleson, director.

Walter McGinnis, Wallace Downs and Robert McKee have gone to Canada on a fishing trip.

The Rotary club is making plans for the annual Labor Day swimming meet at the Community Park. Walter Green has been appointed chairman.

Other officials are: Jack Herbert, general supervisor; Harold Burry, starter; Melvin Hetzler, Roster White, Ronald Graham and Walter Green, judges and Harold Burns, announcer.

The Rev. and Mrs. Joseph Brownlee of Cambridge, O., and the Rev. and Mrs. Walker Brownlee and daughter, Carol, of Hamburg, N. Y., are visiting local relatives.

Good Taste

By FRANCINE MARKEL

ARE INTRODUCTIONS ESSENTIAL

"Recently I attended a wedding reception, at which I knew only the bride, the bridegroom and the bride's mother. The bride introduced me to those in the receiving line and her mother introduced me to the groom's mother, etc., standing nearby. However, I found myself seated beside strangers to whom I had never been introduced. I talked with them, nevertheless. Should I not have been introduced to all those present? Was it proper for me to talk to them without being introduced?"

Answer: At a very large party, it is impossible for one to be introduced to all present, so you are free to talk to all those who show inclination to be friendly and beside whom you find yourself seated.

At a large dinner party or wedding reception, it is essential that you speak to those seated on either side of you, even though you have not met. It is customary, however, for those seated together at dinner to be introduced before going to the dining room. At a small gathering, general introductions are made.

Some people are very friendly and like to talk to everyone; others are restrained and aloof. Let their reactions guide you as to whether to go on or turn your conversation to channels elsewhere. You did the correct thing in talking to friendly guests seated near you.

Question: Please give me the correct wording for engraved cards of thanks.

Answer: Engraved cards of thanks are improper, except when sent out by public officials who have been overwhelmed with messages of congratulation or deluged with letters of condolence or funeral flowers upon the death of a member of the family. Such cards should not be sent by private individuals to their personal friends. Hand-written notes of thanks must be sent by them.

Present your problems to Miss Markel who will promptly mail personal replies to questions from readers inclosing stamped, addressed envelopes.

More Unusual Tales Blamed On Heat Wave

By JAMES POWERS
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

A robin got cock-eyed on choke cherries and croaked in Syracuse, N. Y.

The summer's meanest man swiped a child's portable swimming pool in Salt Lake City.

Two hundred workers in Detroit got so hot up by the heat they headed for hoot-of-doors, outside, that is.

In the nation's capital, the whisper of the phrase "deep freeze" was getting a lot of people hot under the collar.

("Hot—characterized by violent or excited activity, emotion or passion."—Webster's new international dictionary.)

Lawrence Cook, of Syracuse, said one of his baby robins died after the cherry binge and a second was hospitalized with a hangerover. Not only couldn't fly right, but its head was so heavy he couldn't get off the ground.

Seals Rubber Boats

A Salt Lake City mother said a thief walked off with a seven-man rubber boat used by kids in the neighborhood to cool off in.

The 200 employees of the Briggs Manufacturing Co.'s Conner plant in Detroit decided it was too hot inside for them and walked out—right into a downpour that brought the temperature down to 70.

("Hot—Having or attended by the sensation of heat in a higher degree than is expressed by warm; as, I am hot and tired."—Webster's new international dictionary.)

The tenants of a Manhattan apartment building knew it was hot but they knew it couldn't be that hot. It wasn't either. A substitute janitor, trying to adjust the plumbing, accidentally had the steam heat on full blast.

Herb Britt, 15, thought it was pleasant when a flash storm cooled the atmosphere somewhat in Atlanta. He changed his mind when a bolt of lightning struck a tree under which he had sought shelter.

It was the second time in three weeks for Herb.

("Hot—Ardent, glowing, fiery, vehement; as the hot blood of youth."—Webster's new international dictionary.)

Give Dogs A Rest
The mayor of Memphis announced he is considering setting aside a day for giving hot and tired dogs a rest. He said it will be called "barefoot day."

The idea came in a letter from an anonymous woman who said she thought more women would go shopping if their feet could be more comfortable.

David Polonski, 33, of Chicago, tried to get some sleep in his car at an isolated spot near the beach.

Two gunmen woke him up, took his wallet with 13 dollars, drove him around town for an hour and a half, and then threw him out.

("Hot—Having or characterized by a (relatively) high temperature."—Webster's new international dictionary.)

Col. James W. Osman, meteorologist at the New York weather bureau said, "the sun is a very powerful heating element."

Dr. Arthur Wilson of Jersey City told the Hudson County Board of Freeholders he thought the county powerhouse was all wet. To illustrate his point he dumped a pitcher of water on his head.

("Hot—Fresh, not yet grown cold or stale; recent, as hot from the press."—Webster's new international dictionary.)

And so forth.

Seek Treasure

At West Side

Wednesday was a busy day for the boys and girls at West Side Playground. In the afternoon the younger children scoured the surrounding neighborhood looking for the items on their scavenger hunt lists.

First ones to return with the right articles were Jim and Bill MacDonald. Judy and Marian Becker were second, and Johnny Carr and Chuckie Hughes were third.

In the evening the teen-agers went to a local beach for swimming and a picnic supper. The success of the picnic was credited to Doc Walzer, who handled the food and transportation.

Next Wednesday, a family wiener roast will be held at the playground, beginning at 6 p. m.

The Teton mountain range, in Wyoming, has 11 peaks of major rank.

Seventh Ward

Women's Club Meets Wednesday Evening

1937 Club Plans For Annual Picnic In September; Mrs. E. DiVivo Chairlady

Members of the 1937 club met at St. Margaret's hall on Wednesday evening for their regular session with Mrs. Margaret Masters, president, in charge.

At the business session, plans were made to have annual picnic, the place to be named later, during the first week of September.

Mrs. Elizabeth DiVivo is chairlady of arrangements, and Mrs. Margaret Masters is co-chairlady. Tasty refreshments were served by Mrs. DiVivo.

Hunting For Treasure At Gaston Park

Pirates of old had their treasure, but they had nothing on the youngsters at Gaston park! Scouring here and there, looking in every possible (and even impossible) place for clues, the children of the park really had a full afternoon of "treasure hunting". In the photo above, Miss Virginia Lightner, an instructor at the playground, can be seen reading a clue to team number one, who were eventually victorious in the hunt, winning the treasure.

On Wednesday, August 10, Gaston Park was the scene of much excitement. Boys and girls hurrying around, turning over logs, looking in tree stumps and behind the various signs scattered through the park. They were on a Treasure Hunt. Everyone was looking for the clues which would lead them to the hidden treasure.

Teams were made up of ten children on a team. Every member of the same team worked together to find the different clues. The clues were written on pieces of paper, with each slip of paper giving a hint where to find the next one until the treasure was finally discovered.

All afternoon the different teams searched the park, hoping to be the first ones to obtain the much-sought-for treasure. Not a stone was left unturned when the hunt was finally completed.

Team number one received first prize for finding the most clues. An extra prize was also given to the person who found the last clue, and this was won by Emil Long, Jr.

Next Monday, Gaston Park will have a peanut hunt and a large attendance is expected for this event.

Mr. and Mrs. W. K. Reed Of Cardiff Here For Year In International Exchange

Mr. and Mrs. W. K. Reed of Cardiff, Wales, sailed today on the Queen Mary from New York, following a year's stay in this country. Mrs. Reed is a sister of Mrs. L. J. Lewis, 217 Glenmore boulevard.

The Reeds came to this country last August in connection with the international exchange of teachers, and both taught at the Wilkesburg high school. During the school year they resided at Wilkesburg, and visited New Castle at weekend and vacation periods. They recently toured through Florida and the New England states, and return to Great Britain with a very high regard for the American people, who showed them such wonderful hospitality, and with memories of a very beautiful country.

Fr. Raymond Heintz Starts Duties At St. Vitus Church

Rev. Fr. Raymond H. Heintz arrived in New Castle Thursday to assume his new duties as assistant pastor of St. Vitus church. The new appointment was officially announced last week by the Most Rev. Hugh C. Boyle, D.D., bishop of the Pittsburgh diocese.

Father Heintz was ordained in St. Vincent's Seminary, Latrobe, Pa., June 12, 1938. Immediately afterwards he was assigned to the Harrisburg diocese, where he served in St. John's church, in Sharmokin, Pa., the heart of the coal region. He also was assigned in Lancaster and York, Pa.

Ever since he started his priestly duties, Father Heintz has been interested in Catholic Boy Scout work. He hopes to continue along this line, in addition to his other duties at St. Vitus as assistant pastor.

Father Heintz replaces Rev. Fr. Vincent Bertoline, assistant pastor for two years, who left Thursday for his new duties at St. Teresa's church, Uniontown, Pa.

New York City Hardest Hit In Polio Outbreak

(By International News Service)

Polio's 1949 rampage counted nearly 11,000 victims today. New York continued to lead the nation as the hardest-hit city with more than 815 cases since Jan. 1. The metropolis' death toll is 62.

Texas ranked as the most afflicted state with more than 1,000 victims registered since the first of the year.

Illinois health authorities said 72 new cases were reported in the state yesterday, the highest ever recorded in any one day. The state's toll was raised to 810 cases compared to 195 reported in the corresponding 1948 period. There have been 49 deaths in Illinois.

Health authorities hinted that more thorough examinations than ever before are turning up cases which might have been diagnosed merely as colds or other ailments in past years.

The late George W. Vanderbilt is said to have first introduced the practice of scientific forestry in the United States.

Lawrence County Girl Wins Prize At 4-H Club Week

Miss Betty Fox from Hickory township won first prize for her exhibit on outdoor cookery which was shown at the annual 4-H club week at Penn State. Betty set the demonstration up and thus receives the prize, but Eileen Stunkard and Corrine Clement helped make the arrangements.

Other 4-H members who went to 4-H club week from Lawrence county include: Lois Syphrit of the Wurttemberg club who presented and egg consumption demonstration, Grace Love and Mary Ella Reynolds from the Wilmington-Neshannock club, and Betty Maughan from the Wilmington club.

The girls stayed in Simmons hall while they were there, which is the new girls' dormitory that has just been completed, attended assembly program where girls from other counties presented plays, saw different demonstrations put on by various departments of the agricultural school, and were taken on a complete tour of the college campus.

Mention was made in Pa News column Thursday evening, of good Samaritan work during a slight accident Wednesday evening, to a member of an Illinois family.

The boy, whose fingers were hurt, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. T. Gwyn Lewis, of 507 Wildwood avenue, who was in his grandfathers car, Edward Roberts of Chicago, who was attending the Ivorites National convention here, at the First Congregational church. The good Samaritan was Mrs.

Rees T. Williams, of Utica, N. Y., formerly of this city, visiting here. Mr. Roberts wants to thank Mrs. Williams, and the person who put the money in the parking meter, and James Swisher, druggist, who applied first aid to the lad's fingers, which are much better today.

Plan Shenango Pottery Vote On August 24

Conference Arranges Date For Employees Vote On Bargaining Agent

Representatives from both company and local union of the Shenango Pottery company, met with the National Labor Relations Board examiner, Robert Hope, of Pittsburgh, Thursday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock at the Castleton. The meeting was called in order to make arrangements for the coming election at the plant, from which the bargaining agent of the company will be determined.

The election is scheduled for Wednesday, August 24, and voting will start at 6 a. m. and continue until 6:30 p. m. There will be three polling places in the three plant divisions at the Pottery.

An estimate of 2,900 union members are eligible to vote. There are approximately 3,200 persons employed at the Shenango Pottery.

Company officials who were present included: Thomas Dickey, director of personnel; William Johns, superintendent of production; William Emley, plant manager; and Robert Gowell, employment agent.

Director of District 21, John W. Grajciar of the United Steelworkers of America, attended, and staff representatives of the U. S. A. Daniel Skelly and Sen. Samuel G. Neff. Speaking for Local Union 3125 was President Andy Pascarella; and trustee, Russell Powell.

Meeting Unique
The meeting was unique in as much as the original petition for the election to determine the bargaining agent, the National Brotherhood of Operative Potters did not send any representatives, and no notification was received as to why they were absent.

In the absence of the petitioners, the United Steelworkers of America, CIO, through their representatives insisted before the examiner that the election be held. It will be determined whether the CIO, or the N. B. of O. P., affiliated with A. F. of L., will be the bargaining agent for the Shenango Pottery company.

Previously a claim was made by the N. B. of O. P. that the Steelworkers' refusal to recognize the constitutionality of the Taft-Hartley act would make it impossible for the CIO to be placed on the ballot.

However, since the U. S. A. CIO has complied with the Taft-Hartley bill, and signed non-communist affidavits, it is now possible for the CIO to be placed on the ballots.

This will be the first election to be conducted by the National Labor Relations Board, since the enactment of the Taft-Hartley Law, June 1947, in which the U. S. A. CIO, will be placed in the ballot.

Wherry Declares Arms Aid Program Outlook Precarious

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—(INS)—Senate Republican Leader Wherry, Neb., declared today that legislation embodying the administration's one billion, 450 million dollar arms aid program is in a "precarious position".

Wherry placed this interpretation on a tie vote in the house foreign affairs committee, blocking the first attempt to cut President Truman's plan to rearm friendly nations.

The committee's vote actually was on a proposal by Rep. Richards (D) S. C., to cut in half the $1,160,990,000 sought by the administration to rearm western Europe. A tie vote is equivalent to defeat of an amendment.

Wherry said this showed that "the legislation is in a very precarious position". He predicted even tougher sledding when it reaches the floor of either the house or the senate, adding: "It shows that the people and their representatives are beginning to think".

Hawaii Plans To Enforce Dock Seizure Law

HONOLULU, Aug. 12.—(INS)—Hawaii's territorial government was declared ready today to man and sail ships with National Guardsmen if necessary to reopen the islands' ocean lifelines, long closed by a CIO dock strike.

Speaker Hiram L. Fong, of the Hawaiian house of representatives said the government is prepared to take this "last emergency step" if the striking longshoremen and other maritime unionists "persist in defiance" of the dock seizure law.

"We are fighting for our very existence," said Fong.

He pointed out that the 103-day-old longshore strike is strangling the territory's economy.

The house speaker said, moreover, that he is convinced the federal government would waive maritime regulations requiring licensed personnel both on deck and in the engine rooms of ocean-going vessels. This waiver, he declared, may prove essential in order "to let the territory meet its emergency."

Acting under the territorial legislature's seizure law, Hawaii's Gov. Ingram F. Stainback has ordered government assumption of control over the islands' seven stevedoring companies. The government presently is recruiting longshoremen at pre-strike wages of $1.40 an hour.

Urges Filipinos To Return Home

NEW YORK, Aug. 12.—(INS)—President Elpidio Quirino of the Philippines has advised his fellow countrymen living in New York to return to the islands to help rebuild their war-torn Pacific republic.

His appeal to 700 Filipino-Americans to come home was made at a reception in his honor last night in the grand ballroom of the Waldorf-Astoria. It was his first speech in New York. He said:

"You are needed more at home than here in the United States."

The Philippine president also told the gathering that "no country today can stand alone" and thus his island nation "must invite people to build a fence around it."

The island statesman is in the country as a central figure in plans for a Pacific pact similar to the one signed by anti-Communist Atlantic nations.

New Radio System Proves Effective After Severe Storm

Lines Out For Considerable Time On Butler And Mt. Jackson Roads Yesterday

New radio system at Pennsylvania Power Company proved its effectiveness Thursday when the severe storm caused service interruptions in a number of locations. Trouble calls received at line headquarters were transmitted through the radio to servicemen in the field, with the result that they arrived at the scene of the trouble very promptly.

A tree over the lines on the Butler road interrupted service for a considerable length of time, but was cleared up much more rapidly than would otherwise have been the case. Wires were also down on the Mt. Jackson road and at a point near Bessemer which interrupted service to those areas for some time.

Some 40 transformer fuses were burned out during the storm, and in practically all cases servicemen were directed to the location of these transformers by radio. Since most of the time lost in this type of interruption is due to the travel time, these outages were considerably reduced.

The radio system worked satisfactorily at all times.

Boys Return From 4-H Club Sessions At State College

Eight boys from Lawrence County agricultural 4-H clubs returned yesterday from Penn State College where they were attending the annual 4-H club week.

While they were at the club week, Eddie Hookway and Robert Reecher from Washington township, and Edward Perschke and Donald Olson from Slippery Rock township, took part in the vegetable judging contest.

Philip Cory and Donald Gibson from Plainsboro township, Walter Kendall from Neshannock township, and Robert McAnis from Big Beaver township, were on a swine judging team.

While they were at the college the boys played softball in a tournament between counties, attended assembly programs, saw demonstrations put on by different departments of the agricultural school, and toured the entire college campus.

Testify In B-36 Bomber Probe

WASHINGTON, D. C.—General George C. Kenney, Strategic Air Commander 1946 to last October (left), and Lt. General Curtis E. Lemay, present Strategic Air Commander, were both witnesses at the B-36 probe Thursday. Kenney told the committee that the B-26 is an atomic bomb carrier which no nation can intercept at night. Lemay also praised the super bomber and said he would assume responsibility as chief supporter of expanded B-36 production.

Arrives In County From Yugoslavia

New Arrival Had Varied Experience Of Hardships During War Years

Ten years after graduation from college a man has some reason to feel he should be established in his profession.

In the case of Frank P. Krause, formerly of Kitzbuhler, Yugoslavia, it isn't so.

Mr. Krause has arrived in Lawrence county, a fully trained pharmacist, speaks seven languages including English, and is now hunting a job in the country he tried so long to reach.

Taken By Germans

Back in 1939 Mr. Krause had graduated from the University of Zagreb as a pharmacist and looked forward to taking up his career. The war came and along with other able young men in his city he was taken by the Germans and sent to Munich.

Until February 1945, when the war ended, he was forced to work in Munich as a pharmacist, receiving for long hours of work poor food, poor clothes and scanty living quarters. No money.

With the war over, he went into Austria. Back in Kitzbuhler his father's estate had been expropriated (grabbed) by Marshal Tito and today Tito uses the Krause estate as one of his headquarters.

For two years he taught languages and mathematics in an Austrian high school. Then he secured a job as an interpreter with the French occupation forces.

Forces Leaving

As the occupation forces kept diminishing Mr. Krause saw that his job would not last much longer. An uncle of his, Frank R. Krause of RD 5, East Brook Station, sponsored the emigration of Mr. Krause and his father and they arrived here three weeks ago.

He speaks English, French, German, Spanish, Yugo-Slav, Russian and Esperanto.

Truckers Eat Corn Also Barbecued Ribs

Lawrence County Chapter PMTA Holds Annual Corn Roast At Pearsall Home

That corn surplus we've heard so much about doesn't look to be too large now. The Lawrence County Chapter, Pennsylvania Motor Truck Association had its annual corn roast Thursday night and the pile of cobs at the end of the meal looked like something out of Kansas.

The party was held at "Jellico", the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis A. Pearsall of near Neshannock Falls. Mrs. Pearsall prepared the corn, and also the barbecued spare ribs. What she does to spare ribs is her secret and the crowd present waded through 100 pounds of the ribs trying to find the secret.

The dinner was served on the lawn of the Pearsall home and the fresh air and fragrant odors seemed to sharpen appetites.

At the close of the dinner J. Fred Clarke, president of the chapter presented Mrs. Pearsall with a gift as a token of the truckers' appreciation. About seventy-five were present.

Around Hollywood

By FRANK NEILL
(International News Service Staff Correspondent)

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 12.—The Douglas clan of Hollywood is becoming nearly as famous as the Lodges of Boston—but whereas the Lodges speak only of Cabots, the Douglases will speak to practically anybody.

Latest member of the Douglas tribe to hoist the name to new heights in Hollywood is Kirk, barrel-chested he-man who suddenly has become the toast of the bobby-sox brigade, not to mention the teen-agers' parents.

Kirk, whose real name is not Douglas, is unmoved by the fact that other characters first laid claim to the name for purposes of stage and screen.

"I like Douglas," he said. "It's a good solid name. Easy to remember. I've had it for a long time."

Issur Bantelovitch

Kirk's real name is Issur Bantelovitch. That's the way he was christened some years ago at Amsterdam, N. Y.

Melvyn Douglas (whose real handle is Hesseleberg) probably had earliest priority on the name, having hit the peak of the Hollywood pile long before Kirk even knew how to execute a worthy double-take.

Robert Douglas (real name of Findlayson) brought the name all the way from England and began being a prominent film villain in movies like "Don Juan" and "The Fountainhead."

An actor named Donald Douglas, with 26 pictures to his credit, has never been a star but his name is more than casually familiar to most movie-goers.

There also is Earle Douglas. And along with Kirk and Robert, who act in Warner Brothers pictures, the studio recently hired a feller by the name of Warren Douglas for a featured role in "Task Force."

As far as Kirk knows, he's the only Douglas in his latest epic, "Young Man With a Horn."

"I can see," he mused, "that there might be some confusion about the Douglases, especially if any of us looked alike, but I don't think we do."

No Resemblance

He knows he doesn't resemble Mary Douglas, an actress. But he isn't so sure about Howard Douglas, never having seen him either on or off the screen. George Douglas is a cowboy actor, so Kirk is pretty safe there, having shied away from horses and spurs to this date.

It is not only in the acting department that the Douglases are prominent. Gordon Douglas is a writer. Everett is a film editor. Haldane is an art director. Rita (Douglas, not Hayworth) is a writer. And Lloyd C. Douglas is a novelist of some import to both Hollywood and the bookshells.

Says Fourth Round Pay Boost Would Imperil Economy

Investment Banker Says Entire National Economy Would Be Endangered

NEW YORK, Aug. 12.—(INS)—President Truman's fact-finding board in the steel industry wage dispute was told today that fourth round pay boost for steelworkers would imperil the entire national economy.

John M. Hancock, New York investment banker who appeared as a witness for "Big Steel" in its opposition to wage increase and pension demands of the CIO Steelworkers union, said the U.S. must "stop inflation" now.

A wage rise in the steel industry, said Hancock, would be granted at the risk of "undermining the entire business structure and even the national security."

Can't Countenance Either

He said of the union's request for a 30-cents an hour raise:

"These wage demands confront the nation with the unlovely alternative of either a substantial rise in the cost of living, or a serious increase in unemployment. We cannot for a moment countenance either."

Hancock said experience has shown "that increases in steel wages are likely to be pattern-setting. Past wage increases in the steel industry have spilled over into other industries."

The question is, he told the fact-finders—whose recommendations neither the steel companies nor the union are bound to follow—can "America stand more inflation?" He said it cannot, and maintained that therefore no steel wage pay increase should be given.

The fact-finding hearings began last month, with the union first presenting its case. Appointment of the board was in line with Mr. Truman's "peace plan" that brought a 60-day postponement of a scheduled strike.

State Legion Convention To Name Officers

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 12—(INS)—Nomination of candidates for State Commander and election of all other officers headed the list of events scheduled for today at the 31st State Convention of the American Legion in Pittsburgh.

Also on the program are speeches by Sen. Edward Martin, of Pennsylvania, and National Commander Perry Brown.

Battle lines were drawn and opposing camps were gathering their forces in what convention veterans said was the hottest race yet for State leadership of the 270,000-member Veterans Service organization.

The contest appeared to be between two Philadelphiaans, with a 36-year-old World War II Marine Corps veteran seeming to have a slight edge over his World War I counterpart.

Philadelphia Battle

Insiders said that Walter Alessandrini, boyish-looking Philadelphia lawyer, was the white hope of World War II Legionnaires to break the traditional control of the legion by the old guard, Richard White, 49-year-old Philadelphia cigar dealer, is one of two World War I veterans opposing him.

James S. Munger, of Nazareth, yesterday was elected New Grand Chief De Gare of the 40 and 8, fun-making branch of the Legion.

The Women's Auxiliary named three candidates for president of its group. They are Mrs. Leonard Bradley, Pittsburgh; Mrs. Austin Billie, Washington, and Mrs. Matthew Collins, Pittsburgh. Election will be held today.

Activities were climaxed last night in a minute parade through downtown Pittsburgh of the 40 and 8. The Legion parade will be held tomorrow.

BURNED BY ACID WHILE AT WORK

Joseph Frank, 21 years, of Montgomery avenue, an employee of the Bossert company, received burns of both feet, when a container of acid, was accidentally tipped, the contents spilling out on to his feet. The accident happened Thursday at 4:30 p. m.

He was treated in the New Castle Hospital and later discharged.

Indian Grave-Archeological Find

NEW CASTLE NEWS PHOTOS
By JAMES E. LEASURE, JR.

"Probably one of the greatest archeological finds in recent years," is the comment made by Charles W. Beerbower, local member of the Pennsylvania Archeological Society, of the opening of an Indian grave near Clarksville, Pennsylvania. The grave was unearthed recently by Stanley A. Stewart, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Stewart of 63 Covert avenue in Sharpsville.

Stanley Stewart, a history major at Westminster college, made his discovery while excavating on the Stewart homestead, a tract of land originally deeded to a Revolutionary War Veteran. The original deed, for 400 acres, still remains in the family.

Unearthing a human skeleton approximately six foot six inches tall, has sent old-timers racing for their history books and hashing over folk lore of this region. Two trains of surmise are available upon who the human was. There seems to be no doubt in any mind, that it was an Indian. But as to who it was, makes the controversy.

One thought deals with a legend concerning a tall Indian Chief of a Seneca tribe, named Kiondashawa. His tribe had a camp ground at the approximate location of the Boy Scout camp, Kiondashawa, in Mercer county. Old Chief Kiondashawa was killed at the turn of the 19th century and his grave was made secret.

Another legend has to do with a tall chief of another Seneca tribe (Editor's Note—This is the first publication of the enclosed map.

It is made public by the extensive research of Charles W. Beerbower, member of the Pennsylvania Archeological Society.)

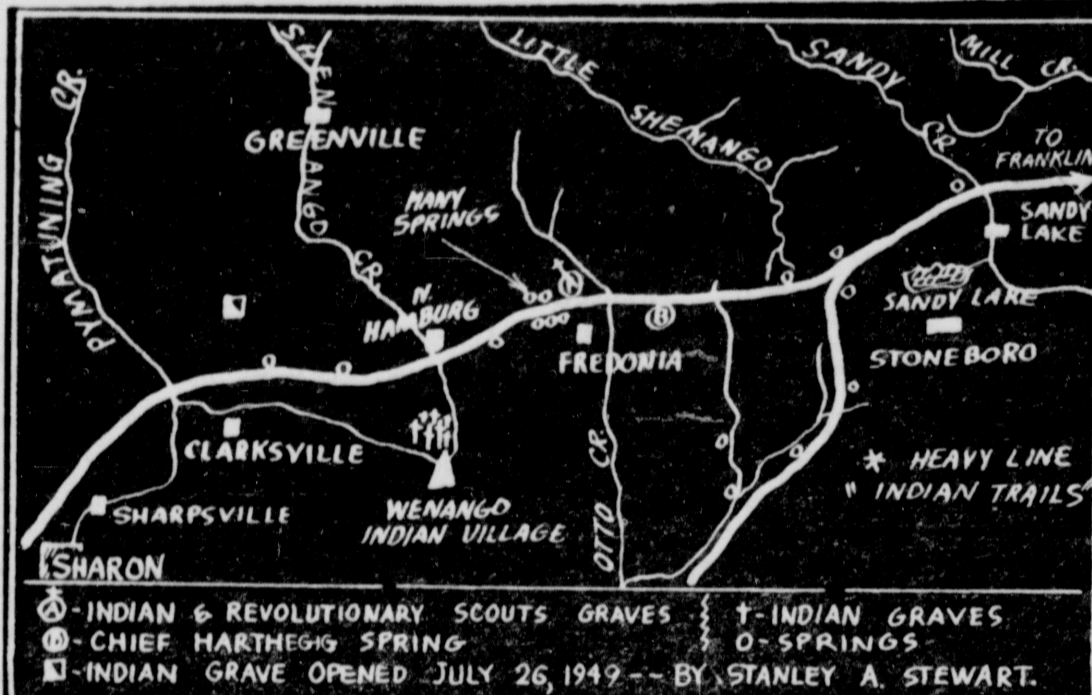

The enclosed map is from an original drawing made a great many years ago with information handed down from father to son by former residents of the tri-county area. The heavy lines are the Indian Trails. The one passing near Stoneboro comes to the Indian Village of Kuskuskee (New Castle).

of the Iroquois Indians who peopled this very valley in which we now live. He was Chief Hartheigie. He too was killed and his grave hid. The reason for the revival of these old legends is the length of the skeleton found.

The grave is not far from the established location of the Wenango Indian Village and an even shorter distance from the, now determined, location of the Indian Trails through Mercer and Lawrence counties.

Note—This is the first publication of the enclosed map. It is made public by the extensive research of Charles W. Beerbower.

To students of Indian lore, the discovery of the grave and its arrowheads, are an important find, but the discovery of many articles of definite European manufacture, adds to its importance. The grave contains beside the skeleton, a brass kettle with an iron bail. The kettle is seven inches in diameter and three inches high. It has a three-eighths inch rolled rim.

Also of European or English make is a steel tomahawk, eight and one quarter inches high with a blade three inches wide. On the top of the tomahawk is a hole into which was inserted an iron spike. The grave contained rusted iron knives and an iron pocket comb, many arrow heads and even a sheet of glass four inches by five inches. There were trader beads of glass, a metal snuff box with metal buttons and a number of curiously chipped pieces of translucent stone as yet unidentified. The chips are about one inch square, part are light in color and the others dark.

The true importance of the find will not be known until archeologists from Harrisburg have been able to make a minute study of the articles found.

New Minimum Wage Bill Likely To Get Approval

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12—(INS)—Congress apparently is set today to pass before adjournment a new minimum wage bill boosting the pay of more than one million workers.

The Senate is expected to join the House soon in increasing from 40 to 75 cents the hourly wage paid workers employed by industries engaged in interstate commerce.

The House bill provides one million 300 thousand workers with a pay raise, according to Secretary of Labor Tobin. The Senate may go even further.

Sen. Taft (R) Ohio, chairman of the Republican policy committee, and Sen. Humphrey (D) Minn., predicted that a 75-cent minimum wage bill would pass the Senate "without great difficulty."

The legislation may be called up next week. It is next on the Senate agenda, unless displaced by an appropriation bill.

House leaders looked to the Senate to approve a bill more acceptable to President Truman than the measure which passed the House yesterday by a vote of 361 to 35.

Mr. Truman recommended a 75-cent minimum, plus coverage for more workers.

Tobin estimated that the House bill dropped from the benefits of the wage and hour law 1,160,000 workers who are now covered, while extending coverage to 155,000 new workers.

Senator Martin Speaks To Legion

Makes Address At State Convention Sessions Being Held In Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 12—(INS)—Senator Edward Martin today warned more than 3,000 delegates to the 31st state convention of the American Legion in Pittsburgh that "a nation is no stronger than the average strength and character of its citizens."

He charged that "careless and selfish" Americans are a threat to American democracy. He said: "We know here at home that our enemies are those treacherous foes who would overthrow this government by force, if necessary."

The Pennsylvania Republican said that in this "conflict we know our enemy: abroad are the godless, treacherous and aggressive nations."

He submitted the following program for the Legionnaires' consideration: "First... Strengthen the influence in the home... Second, have fine schools presided over by men and women with the highest ideals of this republic... Third, a militant and tolerant church."

Also on the speaking program

today is National Commander Perry Brown.

Of most importance on the business agenda is nomination of candidates for state commander and election of all other officers.

Rumors Persist That Coal Miners Will Go On Strike

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 12—(INS)—Rumors that the nation's soft coal miners will go on a full-scale strike next week persisted in all segments of the industry today.

But they couldn't be pinned down.

The reports were coming primarily from the coal miners themselves. For a week it has been rumored that the three-day week will end Monday and the miners will walk out until a new contract is signed.

In the last day or so, the rumors have become more insistent.

The only official statement on the matter, however, came from a spokesman for District 5 of the United Mine Workers. He said: "The rumors are absolutely false. We'll work as scheduled."

City Council Passes Housing Resolution

Special Meeting Authorizes Mayor To Record City As Favoring Housing Unit Here

New Castle City Council passed a housing resolution Friday morning in a special meeting that may lead to the construction of a low cost housing unit in New Castle.

Council authorized the Mayor to sign the necessary papers putting the City on record as favoring the erection of a housing unit to accommodate forty families at a site on Locust street near Lincoln avenue.

The plans for the actual construction are of a tentative nature but will be done by a private contractor working through the recently legislated Pennsylvania Housing and Redevelopment program. It was necessary that the City's authorization for the proposal be in Harrisburg by Monday, hence the special meeting.

The city will not be obligated financially or otherwise for the housing erection. However, city authorities are anxious that additional low cost housing be constructed here and passed the resolution unanimously.

NEW CASTLE, PA., NEWS, FRIDAY, AUGUST 12, 1949

All-Stars Await Kickoff At Stadium Tonight

Coaches of the single wing all-star football team that plays aggregation of "T" formation stars at Taggart stadium tonight are, left to right, Phil Bridenbaugh, New Castle; Ben Haldy, Monongahela; Dutch Croft, Ellwood City; William Ciccone, Bessemer, and George Thomas, New Castle. The single wing squad is a slight underdog for the contest.

Taggart stadium's velvet green carpet welcomes the return of cleated hoof and marching band in tonight's inaugural of the 1949 football season. The kickoff occurs at 8:30.

Fifty high school all-star gridders, representing the finest talent from thirty-four schools in Western Pennsylvania meet in a duel of offensive football formations.

A forty-five minute pre-game program will feature the New Castle Senior High school band and salutes to O. H. "Pro" Burton, president of the coaches association until his death last winter, and the nursing profession.

Top Flight Game

Tonight's attraction offers two top flight football teams in action in an ideal setting, the best equipped high school stadium in this part of the country, for the benefit of two worthy organizations.

The Ladies' Auxiliary of the New Castle hospital will use its share of the proceeds to help meet its pledge to the Hospital Building fund campaign just completed. The Coaches association uses its portion of the receipts from these games to help defray the expenses of the annual football clinics.

Pezuolo Hurt

The forecast of partly cloudy, cooler weather was welcomed today by the players and spectators alike. Both the "T" formation team under "Pop" Wenrich and the single wing forces under Phil Bridenbaugh had extended scrimmages and drill yesterday in the extreme temperatures. If the boys can take that, they are physically fit to put on a good game tonight.

A torn cartilage in the knee of Henry Pezuolo, suffered in Wednesday's practice, was a severe blow to the already underdog single-wing eleven. Pezuolo is the extremely talented fullback from Bessemer who was attracting as much attention from college scouts on the Slippery Rock campus as any of the high school All-Stars. Paul Anders of Monongahela will probably bear the brunt of the bucking back's duties tonight.

Plays Perfected

Both teams went through slight workouts and perfected plays this morning. Rest is in order this afternoon and then the big game.

The wisdom of the coaches in selecting the two competing groups on the basis of their background in offensive football while in high school, has already been vindicated in the keen rivalry that has developed between the two groups.

Both head coaches are well-known for their desire to win and their ability to mold a well-drilled, cohesive football team with skill and finesse. A battle of two great modern systems of offensive football, with lots of passes and deception that can be offered by a group of real all-stars, is in the offing.

Band To Perform

New Castle dignitaries, visiting college coaches, the band, and the cheerleaders will be on hand for a colorful program before the game. The band will return for one of its excellent half-time performances. Also during the intermission jackets will be presented to the All-star participants.

Ticket sales have mounted rapidly in the last few days but there will be an ample supply available at the stadium tonight. Reserved seats, general admission and student tickets go on sale when the gates open at 7 p.m.

The Phillies are convinced at last that they got the worst of the bargain when bald-plated lefty Ken Raffensberger was shipped to Cincinnati for catcher Al Lakeman.

Better days on the gridiron may be ahead for the Maroon of Lafayette college in Easton.

Eagles Favored
Over All-Stars

CHICAGO, Aug. 12.—(INS)—A glittering array of 1948 college all-stars, twinkling with the spark of a "new offensive" clash tonight with the National Football league champion Philadelphia Eagles in Chicago's Soldier Field.

Ninety-five thousand football fans are expected to brave the heat and perhaps showers to see this 16th annual all-star-pro game in which the Eagles have been made 10-point favorites.

Opposition to the odds-makers' forecast, however, came from Eagles coach Earle (Greasy) Neale. It wasn't that Neale feared any single member of the all-stars but he was extremely doubtful about that axiom concerning safety in numbers.

Over 70 All-Stars

Coach Charles (Bud) Wilkinson has a squad of more than 70 all-stars and this wealth of football material could very well be an important factor in the game.

The temperature in Chicago has been over 90 degrees for the past week. A continuance of this type of weather would make it necessary for both sides to substitute frequently.

Lawrence Indies scored all their runs in the first three innings to defeat the Dewey A. C. 9 to 4 in a City League tilt last night.

Rain halted the game after five completed innings were played. Two-base hits were in vogue at the game. Seven of the game's 17 safeties went for two sacks. The winners recorded four and Deweys netted the other three.

Wayne Shelar, playing left field, got a pair, Shabala connected for a double and a single, and Budal did likewise.

R. Coulter got a brace of two-base knocks for Dewey and Adams checked in with the other.

Both starters went all the way. The winner, Michaliojko, gave up nine hits, walked two and struck out five. Al Koszela is charged with the loss.

The Eagles Club No. 455 of New Castle will stage their third annual P. O. E. Tri-State golf tourney Sunday at the Sylvan Heights course, it was announced today by general chairman Arles Crum. Play will start at 9 p.m.

Last year the Eagles staged one of the most successful and largest tourneys at the Heights course. This year prizes totaling over $500 will go to the various winners, including a large trophy.

Three Flights

There will be three flights for those shooting 72 to 82, 83 to 93 and 94 and over. Last year over 100 Eagles took part coming from all over the Tri-State district. Jerry Bonarti of Verona Pa., was the winner last year and will be defending champion.

Chairman Crum has lined up an all-day program with a banquet, dance and show to follow at the Eagles Club Sunday evening. A gala time is in store for those who participate. The ladies of the Eagles auxiliary will entertain the visiting women during the golf tourney.

GAME AT UNION

The game between Ecclesian Club and West Pittsburg will be played at Union High field tonight at six o'clock.

General Manager Roy Hamey said the Pittsburgh Pirates will enthusiastically support an International News Service proposal to honor Babe Ruth with a minute's silence the night of August 16.

ATHLETICS UPSET PRISONERS 8-2

GRATEFORD, Pa., Aug. 12.—(INS)—Nobdody so much as stole a base when the Philadelphia Athletics defeated the Eastern State Penitentiary inmate all-stars yesterday in Grateford.

The A's took the game 8 to 2 with a highly-shuffled lineup that had shortstop Eddie Joost on the pitching mound with indifferent results.

Anyway, none of the spectators went home early.

Shamrocks Tangle With DeCarbo's In Final Game Tonight

Winner Of Tonight's Game Meets Moose For City Championship Next Week

DeCarbo's and Shamrocks meet tonight at Dean park in the final game of their three-game playoff series.

Both teams have won one game in the first round series of the city softball league playoff. Shamrocks took the first game Monday night, 10 to 6, behind Lane. DeCarbo's took the second game Wednesday night behind the five-hit pitching of Rhodes.

MacFarland is set to go tonight for the DeCarbo Bombers with Lane getting the nod again for the Shamrocks. Injuries to two of his starters have forced manager Quinto to use Lane in each of the playoff games to date.

Miller, Shamrock third baseman, has connected for four hits in the two playoff games played. DeLillo and Ciprano of DeCarbo's and P. Hawkins of the Shamrocks have each connected for three hits in the series so far.

Homer For Rhodes

Hock DeLillo and Rhodes have both hit home runs, with F. Jenkins, Santangelo and P. Hawkins having triples. Sammy Calazza and Ciprano have hit two doubles and P. Hawkins and Richards each having one.

Latrenta of the Bombers scored three runs in the second game of the series.

Umpires for tonight's game will be Tony Mike, Jim Abraham and Dom Cioffi.

Winner of tonight's game will enter the final playoff series with Moose Monday night. The Moose eliminated Pearsons in two straight games Monday and Wednesday nights.

The year 1949, however, will go down as the baseball season in which one infatuated miss shot Eddie Waitkus and another threatened to kill herself if Joe D. Magigio wouldn't date her.

Ellwood Planning Classy Fight Card For Next Tuesday

Chuck Higgins Will Meet Jimmy Guy Of Detroit, Bobby Neal Meets Willard Coffey

Ellwood City fight fans have been promised a great card next Tuesday at the Lincoln High football field, with Chuck Higgins, the sensational Ohio middleweight meeting Jimmy Guy, of Detroit in the main go of eight-rounds.

Guy was substituted for Marion Klingensmith of Brownsville when the popular Klingensmith was kayoed in Chicago by Anton Raadik recently. A state law says that a fighter suffering a kayo cannot fight again for 30 days.

Matchmaker Ray Loccisano then secured Guy for the headliner spot.

Higgins beat Guy in a split decision at Ellwood a while back, and hopes to repeat. The first meeting was a slam-bang affair and very close.

Neal vs. Willard Coffey

The other headliner bout of eight rounds next Tuesday pits the popular Bobby Neal of Beaver Falls, 150-pound slugger against Willard Coffey of Charleston, West Virginia, formerly of Chicago.

Others on the highly advertised fight card are: Chuck Gibbons of Ellwood City against Buddy Walls of Sharpsburg, in a five-rounder, and Roy Crews, Ellwood City middleweight against Jack Botonovich of Rochester in a five-rounder. In the four-round curtain raiser Tony Arnett of Ellwood City, a good lightweight, battles Paul Kelly of Sharpsburg.

The show is for the benefit of the Ellwood City Fire department which is sponsoring the show, with Loccisano as matchmaker.

EAGLES WILL PLAY ENON VALLEY TEAM

The Eagles team of the Legion league will play host to the Enon Valley team Sunday, Aug. 14th, at Deshon field at 3 p.m.

The Eagles suffered a defeat at the hands of the Enon team recently and will be out to avenge this defeat.

Joe O'Leary has asked that all players report for this game as a blackboard drill will follow in preparation for the play-off games for the Legion championship starting Monday, August 15.

New Castle and Youngstown will play-off their scheduled double-header tonight at Flaherty Memorial Field, being rained out last night after two innings, with the Nats leading 2 to 0.

Owing to circumstances beyond their control, the New Castle baseball club is forced to play tonight, or take the games to Youngstown, which they did not want to do. This is the last trip for Youngstown here this year.

Giardullo—Churchill

Manager Billy Mongiello has announced that he will stick with his pitchers slated to work Thursday—Mike Giardullo in the first game and Herb Churchill in the second game.

Giardullo did a good job last night until it rained, allowing one hit. The Nats retired the Athletics in order in the first inning. Maier threw out two men at first and Giardullo fanned one. Betz led off the second inning with a single and Morgan safe on an error by Gazzola at short, then the rains came.

Cannavino Impressed

President and General Manager Mike Cannavino of Erie, was in the stands last night and was impressed with what little he saw of the newly improved Nats lineup. "We should win a lot of games from now until the season closes, we have a fine lot of hitters and a good defensive team," Cannavino stated.

Big First Inning

The Nats had a big first inning off of starting hurler Steve Chereder last night (then it rained). Reed Maier led off with a triple to left center that Panceo played badly. Gazzola fanned, Hilty Shapiro singled and Maier tallied. Kiel walked, Shapiro scored when Tommy Milich shot a single to left field. Torrey lifted to Morgan at first and Ammons forced Milich at second.

Youngstown will again use Chereder on the mound in the first game tonight, it was indicated.

Away For Five Games

Uniontown defeated Oil City last night, and the Nats failed to pick up any ground in their seventh place drive. Butler trounced Johnston, and Erie whipped Vandergrift.

New Castle will be away for five games after tonight—meeting Vandergrift in two games, August 13 and 14, and at Butler, August 15 and 16, returning home next Thursday to battle the Johnston Johnnies.

RESULTS THURSDAY

Youngstown at New Castle postponed, rain.

Dodgers Regain Leadership Over Idle Cardinals

Brooks Lead By Half-Game, Defeat Phils, Indians
Beat White Sox,
Yanks Lose

By HOWARD SIGMANT
(International News Service Sports Writer)

NEW YORK, Aug. 12.—Burt Shotton's flatbush rover boys are the lone occupants of first place in the National League today because while the Cards were "away" the Dodgers did play.

Things were quiet in St. Louis last night—the Cards and the Cincinnati Reds were not scheduled—but in staid old Philadelphia, Shibe Park in particular, the joint was jumping.

Brooks Win
The Brooks and the Phillies were swinging from the heels and before the dust cleared Peewee Reese had blasted his team to a 10-to-7 win with a three-run homer in the eighth inning.

The shortstop's smash was good enough to give the Dodgers a half-game lead over St. Louis and extend the Bums win streak to six straight games.

The Giants and the Braves battled to a 7-to-7 standoff. Rain and wet grounds caused the game to be called after seven innings.

Werle Wins Ninth
Bill Werle won his ninth game as the Pirates down the Chicago Cubs 3 to 2.

The New York Yankees saw their American League lead cut to 4½ games as they lost to the Red Sox 7 to 6 and the second place Indians eked out a 6-to-5 win in 12 innings over the White Sox. There were no other games scheduled.

GOSHEN TO RETAIN HAMBLETONIAN RACE

DU QUOIN, Ill., Aug. 12.—(INS)

The Hambletonian has been run at Goshen for many years. With the current contract due to expire with the 1950 event.

HEAFNER LEADING CHICAGO TOURNEY

CHICAGO, Aug. 12.—(INS)—Clayton Heafner thought the $10,000 first prize in Chicago's world championship golf tournament would buy a "powerful lot of southern fried chicken" so the big man from Charlotte, N. C., said he aimed to get another 66 in today's second round.

The burly Tar Heel golfer admitted that he had let some of the smaller "fellows" like Lloyd Mangrum of Chicago and Sam Snead of White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., get the best of him in most of the tournaments this year.

The 35-year-old war veteran who tied Snead for second in the national open was all business yesterday.

Court House

Officers To Get $1,000 Expenses

Commissioners And Controller To Get $1,000 Additional For Institutional Work

OTHER EVENTS IN COURT HOUSE

Lawrence county will follow the lead of many other counties in the state and pay the commissioners and county controller $1,000 as expenses for work with the institutional district.

After considering the matter carefully the commissioners and controller believe they are legally entitled to the money voted by the General Assembly in the recent session.

The act provides that each commissioner and the county controller are to be paid $1,000 in addition to their salaries for their work with the institutional district.

The question has been raised in some counties as to the legality of such an addition for officers who were already elected when the act was passed.

Objectors to the idea say it violates the constitution which provides no elected officer shall receive an increase in salary while he is in office.

To this it is argued that the money is expense money and hence not an addition to a salary.

An amicable suit is expected to be filed in Luzerne county, testing whether or not it is constitutional to pay the money to officers now serving.
